Mississippi River On Rampage

U.S. Counts 22
Dead In Floods
And Tornadoes11 Killed In Iowa;
Toll Likely To Rise

(By The Associated Press)

The rampaging Mississippi River, spilling over thousands of rich farm acres and wrecking property valued in the millions, was a remained menace Sunday night as the nation counted at least 22 dead in floods and tornadoes.

Floods took 11 lives in Iowa alone. Five persons were killed by tornadoes in Pennsylvania and Ohio. Six additional flood deaths occurred in Canton, O. (2); Dallas, Ore.; Gregory, E. D.; Bethany, Mo., and Mansfield, O.

Seven of the Iowa dead were at Ottumwa where the flood waters of the Des Moines River began receding after submerging large sections of the city of 32,000.

An official directing rescue work said he expected additional bodies would be found downstream but had "no idea" how many. Earlier, he had predicted the toll would rise to 20 but said this now appeared a little high.

The other four Iowa flood deaths occurred elsewhere in the state earlier in the week.

Mississippi Floods 16,000 Acres

There were no reports of lives lost in the Mississippi flood which poured through five broken levees to inundate 16,000 acres of fertile agricultural lands in Missouri and Illinois. Alexandria, Mo., near where the Des Moines River enters the Mississippi, was completely under water. Other communities as far downstream as Louisiana, Mo., were partly submerged.

Hannibal, Mo., made famous by Mark Twain, and Quincy, Ill., on the opposite bank a few miles upstream, the most populous cities in the devastated area, are situated on high bluffs and believed safe. Farms in the lowlands around both cities were flooded.

Canton, Mo., a town of about 8,000, appeared the hardest hit of any place along the Mississippi, reported Associated Press. Photographers George Fick, who flew over most of the area between Louisiana, Mo., and Keokuk, Ia. Most of 600 homeless at Canton had moved to dormitories at nearby Culver-Stockton College.

In Southern Ohio, small tributaries of the Ohio and Scioto Rivers, swollen by heavy rains Saturday night, burst their banks, flooding homes, washing out small bridges and causing considerable crop damage.

Western Pa. Hit By Tornado

On the West Coast, at Dallas, Ore., farm workers searched for missing relatives in the wake of flash floods which took at least one life Saturday. Two persons were missing after an eight-foot wall of water poured down a narrow canyon. Cloudbursts, hail and a windstorm ruined at least 5,000 acres of sugar beets on the Washington-Oregon border.

A tornado which zig-zagged through Eastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania Saturday killed at least five persons and partly wrecked almost a dozen towns. Hardest hit was Sharon, Pa., with all homes in a 15-block residential area damaged. The tornado also struck Ravenna, DeForest, Warren, Youngstown and Niles, Ohio, and Farrell, Mercer and Grove City, Pa.

Two persons were drowned in swollen creek waters at Canton, O.

Hagerstown Damage Is Estimated At $500,000

HAGERSTOWN, Md., June 8 (P)—Workers cleared rubble from downtown streets today and residents surveyed the damage—estimated by one source at more than $500,000—in the wake of last night's storm which state police said was of tornado intensity.

Prisoner Thwarts Efforts To Save
His Life After He Slashes Throat

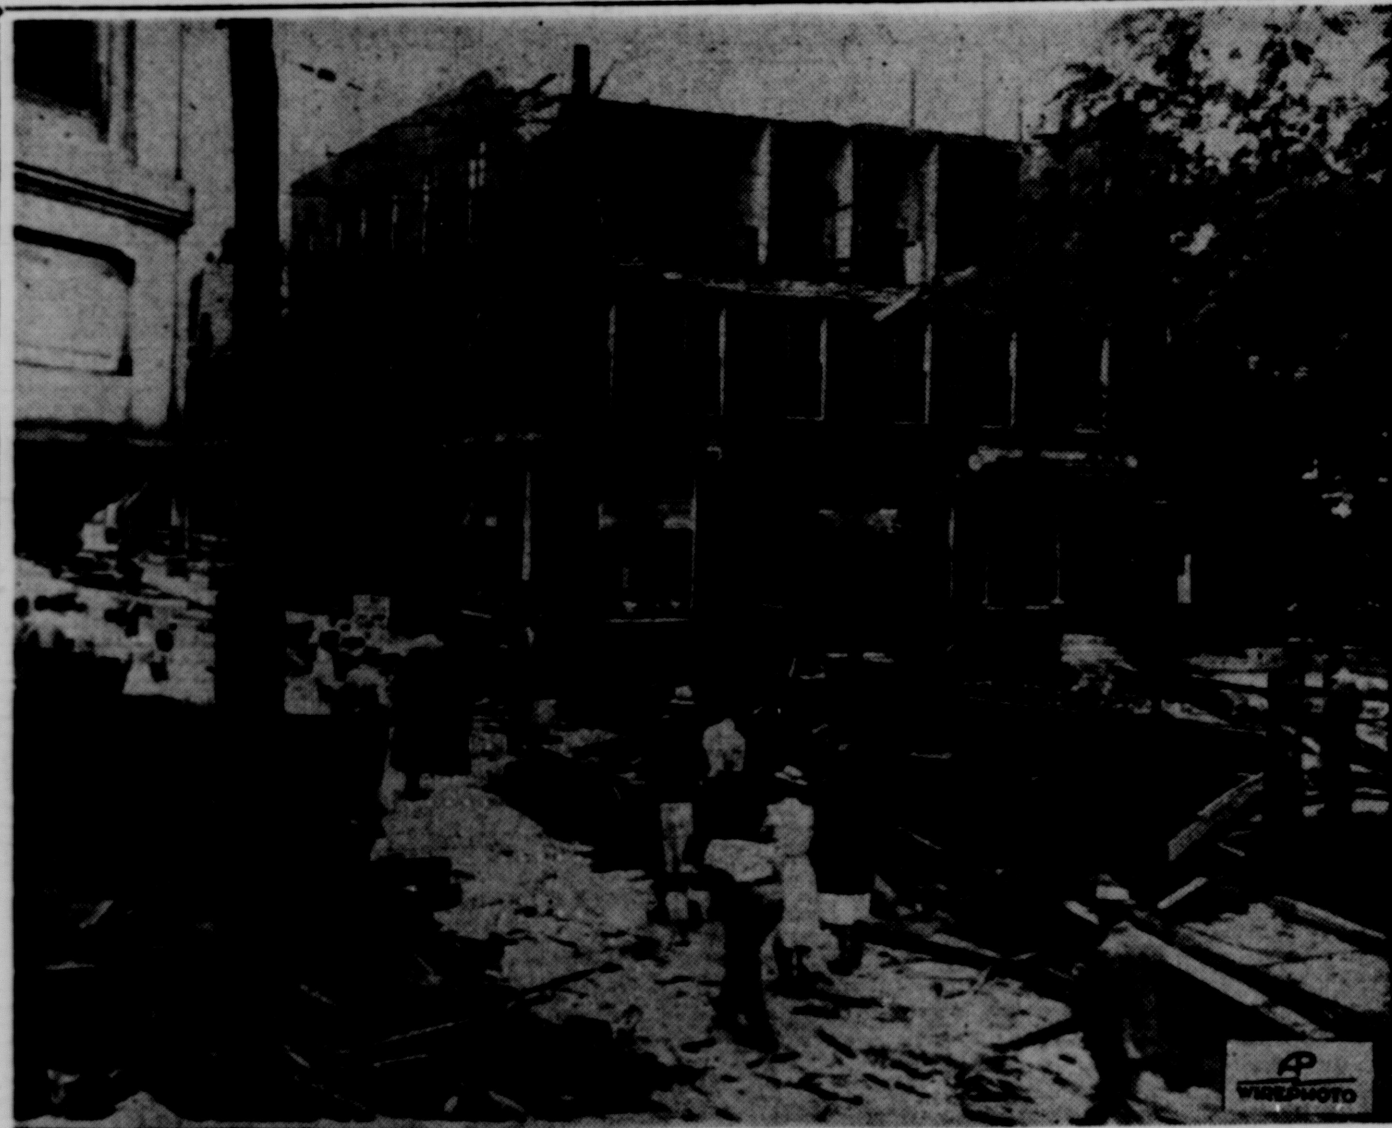

NORWALK, O., June 8 (P)—A federal prisoner who attempted suicide at the county jail last night by slashing his throat with a razor blade thwarted efforts to save his life today by ripping out stitches in the wound with his hands.

Sheriff Jesse Mellott reported that the prisoner, William Bukove, 37, died from loss of blood at Memorial Hospital where he had been taken for treatment. The sheriff said papers found on the prisoner, who was being held for the FBI on a charge of motor car theft, indicated his address was Box 57, Taos, N. M., and that he was employed last February as a salesman by the Southwestern Weatherstripping Company of Santa Fe, N. M.

The sheriff gave this report of the suicide.

Bukove was sitting on a bunk in the bullpen at the county jail watching 11 other prisoners who were grouped about a table playing cards. Suddenly, the other prisoners heard him utter a small cry and looking around they saw blood streaming from his throat and a razor blade in his hand.

Bukove struggled to escape when fellow prisoners grappled with him. He screamed, "Give me a gun to finish this."

STORM HITS HAGERSTOWN—This is the general view in downtown Hagerstown yesterday after a tornado-like storm struck Saturday night. An estimated $500,000 damage was credited to the twister. No one was injured.

Millions Have Immediate
Stake In Speedy Action
By Truman On Tax Bill

WASHINGTON, June 8 (P)—Several million taxpayers facing a quarterly income tax payment deadline have an immediate stake in speedy action by President Truman on the tax reduction bill.

Their deadline for payment is the same as the President's deadline for action—midnight, June 16. It would be June 15 if that were not a Sunday.

These taxpayers are non-salaried workers, business and professional people, and salaried professional people, and salaried $5,000 a year.

If the tax cut fails of enactment, their June payment will be the same, as a general rule, as the one they made in March. But if Mr. Truman signs the bill, they could take advantage of the reduction right away even though the official effective date would be July 1.

Republican Wins
Washington Race

OLYMPIA, Wash., June 8 (P)—A Republican newspaper publisher who upheld the Truman foreign policy defeated a "progressive Democrat" backed by Henry Wallace to win the vacant United States House seat in Washington State's Third District yesterday.

In a close, hotly-contested special election watched throughout the country as a possible indicator of 1948 political sentiment, Republican Russell V. Mack had a margin of slightly more than 1,500 votes over former United States Rep. Charles Savage.

The vote in 573 of the district's 607 precincts gave Mack 32,449 votes to 30,339 for his Democratic opponent.

Returns from the 34 small, unreported precincts could not affect the outcome, and Mack's supporters predicted he would get better than an even break in the nine-county district's 1,768 absentee ballots.

Savage refused to take a direct stand on the Truman-Wallace foreign policy controversy.

Mack said in a statement he understood his election "to mean that the people of the district are solidly back of our nation's bipartisan policy."

Democratic State Chairman Earl Coo, who supported Savage, also said in a statement that Mack's victory "clearly indicates that the people are in favor of a Truman program."

Sternist Admits
He Sent Britons
"Letter Bombs"Declares One Of 24
Addressed To King

By CARLO MASSARO

GENOVA, June 8 (P)—A man who described himself as a member of the Stern Gang, Jewish underground organization, said today that he personally had mailed 24 "letter bombs" to prominent Britons.

He said he had posted the letters—designed to explode when opened—at the central post office of Turin.

One of the 24, he said, was addressed to King George VI, of Britain. He added no more were being sent since the method was now known.

Leaves Genoa For Athens

I talked with the man, who is about 40 and calls himself Ami Kam, just before he left Genoa for Athens, by way of Venice and Trieste.

In London, Scotland Yard expressed interest in the Genoa account. A spokesman reported that new precautions were being taken against British police believed the would-be assassins "probably have something else up their sleeves."

Twenty "letter bombs" all of them mailed from Turin, Italy, have been intercepted so far, British sources said. None was reported to have caused any casualty.

Method Of Reprisal

The Stern Gang has issued a statement in Jerusalem acknowledging responsibility for the "letter bombs" as a method of reprisal against British policy in Palestine.

"Kam" gave detailed descriptions of the explosive missives. He said the 24 envelopes he mailed were of yellow manila-type paper, the large type used for official communications. Each, he said, contained 190 grams of explosive, enough, when permitted contact with the air, to kill the opener of the envelope.

Each envelope, he continued, bore 105 lire worth of stamps, purchased at the Turin post office. (Full details on the letters have not been announced in London.)

Physicians Are Urged
To "Kick Out Rascals"

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 8 (P)—Dr. Paul R. Hawley, medical director for the Veterans Administration, told physicians today that a "grasping and selfish" 10 per cent of their number can give the profession "a bad reputation."

He suggested that medical groups which attempt to charge the VA "all that the traffic would bear" might be in part the cause of "the clamor now in Congress for some regulation of the practice of medicine."

In a speech for a conference of the presidents of state medical associations, Dr. Hawley declared: "Had organized medicine devoted half as much energy toward kicking out the rascals as it has toward protecting them, there would be no more danger of government control of medicine than there now is of government control of the clergy."

Schedules Interrupted

NEW YORK, June 8 (P)—Flight schedules at LaGuardia Field were interrupted today for the second consecutive day by heavy rain and low ceilings, which extended from Portland, Me., to Baltimore, Md., and precipitation in New York City exceeded by more than six times the average rainfall for this date.

Halleck Urges Truman
To Sign Labor And Tax
Bills To Keep "Pledge"

WASHINGTON, June 8 (P)—Rep. Halleck, of Indiana, the House Republican leader, said today the bills to regulate unions and cut income taxes are key parts of the congressional program and called upon President Truman to sign them to keep his pledge of "co-operation."

"The Republican Congress has been doing its part toward enacting into law legislation that we believe the people want," Halleck said in a statement. "It remains to be seen whether President Truman will go along in this program."

Following last November's elections, Halleck said, "the President recognized that the people had spoken; that they had said they had had enough of New Dealism. He pledged co-operation with the newly-elected Congress."

Accident Theory
In Babies' Deaths

MASSILLON, O., June 8 (P)—A theory that an accident might have led to the deaths of two baby girls in the pediatric ward of City Hospital Friday night is the only present lead toward a solution of the case, Police Chief Stanley W. Switzer said tonight.

He and Hospital Superintendent E. J. Lincke talked tonight with two small children who are patients in the hospital, but found nothing that would shed any light on the case, the chief said.

Switzer said the investigation was tending toward the accident theory, but did not elaborate on that point.

The victims, Diane J. Brand, 10 weeks, and Rosemary Morton, nine weeks, were discovered dying of skull fractures in Room 407 of the hospital, by a nurse. Ten minutes earlier a nurse had seen them sleeping.

After his conference with Lincke, the chief said the investigation would be resumed in the morning. He ordered another all-night guard at the hospital. Earlier he had been asked by reporters whether there had been a confession, and he replied "No."

"Pressure" Campaign

WASHINGTON, June 8 (P)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) said today that government agencies are using "the most violent pressure campaign I have seen in 14 years" to prevent cuts in federal spending.

Truman Refuses To Give Hint
Of Tax And Labor Bill PlansStory Of Jap
Man-Eaters
Is DisclosedStalked Filipinos
In Reign Of Terror

MANILA, June 8 (P)—A grisly story of man-eating Japanese soldiers, who stalked Filipinos on cannibalistic forays and sometimes ate one another, came out of the jungles of Northern Mindanao today.

Thirty-one of the Japanese, who surrendered last February, are held in a military stockade at Del Monte, Northern Mindanao, facing more than 20 murder counts in which cannibalism is involved.

The story was told by S. Melville Russey, Bayonne, N. J., of the Army's legal section in Manila, who obtained confessions and interrogated witnesses in six weeks of investigation.

He styled it a chronicle "of cumulative horror with few parallels of surpassing brutality."

Forced To Eat Parents' Flesh

Russey said the case first took form in the story of a Filipino who was forced by the Japanese to taste the flesh of his own parents.

The Filipino, Felix Sagunwan, 24, identified three of the 31 Japanese soldiers as the ones who broke into his home while he, his father, mother, two sisters, younger brother and sister-in-law were eating their noon meal in November, 1945.

The Japanese bayoneted the father, mother, sister and brother before the horrified eyes of the others and cut flesh from the bodies. "They cooked the flesh before us," he related. "After eating all they wanted, they placed the human meat on a plate and ordered us to eat. We refused, sickened by the thought."

Girls Abducted By Japs

"Then one of the Japanese held a rifle at my back and prodded me with the muzzle. I then tasted that meat. The two girls were forced to do likewise."

"The Japanese laughed and made fun of us. Then they spread a mat and forced by sister Emiliana and Felisa, my elder brother's wife, to make love to them."

The girls were carried off that night and never seen again.

Lt. Hajime Aino, an Army medical corpsman, in his confession admitted that the Japanese, also ate one another.

Kilgore Warns Farben
Cartel Being Rebuilt

WASHINGTON, June 8 (P)—Kilgore (D-WVa.) declared tonight that some persons who "endangered" the nation's safety by prewar participation in the German I. G. Farben cartel "have not learned a lesson but are working even now to rebuild this dangerous structure."

Kilgore said war crimes indictments against 24 I. G. Farben officials in Germany constitute a "moral indictment against scoundrel American industrialists who gambled for high profits at the risk of endangering our entire economic mobilization just prior to World War II."

He did not name them.

The Farben indictments, Kilgore said in a talk recorded for radio broadcast in West Virginia, also "more than substantiate" charges made by a Senate Military Affairs Subcommittee during a cartel investigation two years ago. Kilgore was the subcommittee chairman.

NFTW Is Dissolved

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., June 8 (P)—The National Federation of Telephone Workers, 10-year-old group that led the recent telephone strike, was dissolved today.

In its place a new national union, the Communications Workers of America, will start its existence and its first convention here tomorrow.

President To Leave
For Canada Tonight

WASHINGTON, June 8 (P)—President Truman returned today from a weekend reunion with World War I buddies in Kansas City to confront labor and tax cut bills awaiting his signature or veto and said he would give not "an inkling of what I'm going to do or when" on tax reduction.

It appeared unlikely that he would act on either measure before his return from a three-day official visit to Canada which he will leave by train tomorrow night. He is to address the Canadian Parliament on Wednesday.

The presidential plane landed beneath rain clouds at National Airport here at 2:53 p. m. (EST) after a flight of three hours and 51 minutes.

Had "Fine Trip"

Mr. Truman told newsmen he had a "fine trip" and that his 94-year-old mother, Mrs. Martha E. Truman, is "doing fine—she's doing very well."

But he would not discuss the bill for curbing unions which is to reach his desk tomorrow nor the tax reduction bill already there, even to the extent of his remark in Kansas City that he would give no "inkling" of his plans in advance.

He was greeted at the airport by his daughter, Miss Margaret Truman, and her friend, Miss Druce Snyder, daughter of Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Snyder, and drove directly to the White House.

The presidential plane, the so-called "Sacred Cow," took off from Fairfax Airport in Kansas at 11:02 a. m. (EST) with the Washington reporters who had accompanied him there in another plane stranded for a few hours.

Newsmen's Plane Broken Down

Their commercial, chartered ship, a TWA Constellation, developed a faulty engine this morning on an early tuneup and a substitute plane had to be flown in from the East, delaying their scheduled departure until about 4:30 p. m. (EST).

The President, declining to say whether he will veto the bill cutting taxes by four billion dollars, wouldn't give the newsmen even "an inkling" of whether he will act Monday.

Told that his press secretary, Charles G. Ross, had said yesterday he probably will wait until next Friday, the President smilingly observed:

"Charlie's guess is as good as anybody's. I'm not going to give you an inkling of what I'm going to do or when."

France Organizes
Motor Transport

PARIS, June 8 (P)—Union leaders of France's striking railroad workers appealed tonight to Premier Paul Ramadier to reopen negotiations toward ending the three-day strike, but the government, which has instituted an emergency motorized transport service, made no immediate response.

The government, giving every evidence of preparing for a long siege, announced tonight its prompt long distance bus service would be trebled tomorrow and issued an appeal for more buses to provide emergency passenger service.

The transportation ministry added that its extra plane service would be augmented tomorrow and further increased Tuesday "if the strike is prolonged."

Buses and private cars already have been mobilized, some with Army drivers, to carry passengers at third class rates to destinations in all corners of France.

The rail strike, which started Friday after union leaders failed to agree with the transportation Ministry over workers' demands for wage increases and job reclassification, was complete today except for a few minor lines in the provinces.

Presidential Approval
Of Rent Bill Predicted

WASHINGTON, June 8 (P)—Two senators working on the final draft of the new rent control bill permitting a 15 per cent increase in some cases predicted today that President Truman will sign it.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and Sparkman (D-Ala.), who made the forecast, told a reporter they expected the Senate-House conference committee of which they are members to complete the bill by Wednesday. The final version then must be approved by the Senate and House before going to the President.

Both chambers voted originally for the provision permitting landlords to raise rents up to 15 per cent in return for a lease running through 1948 where the tenant agrees.

U. S. Navy Ready
To Send 121 Ships
To Latin America
Program Requires
Congress Approval

WASHINGTON, June 8 (P)—The Navy is ready to transfer four cruisers and 117 smaller vessels to Latin American nations, officials disclosed today, if Congress approves President Truman's hemisphere arms standardization program.

The Navy has earmarked two light cruisers for Brazil and one each for Chile and Peru. The total of 121 vessels to be transferred includes 37 wartime combat ships valued at $9,286,570 and 84 non-combat ships at $11,828,450. The combat ships besides the four cruisers are 33 destroyer escorts.

$21,115,020 Navy's Cost

Secretary of the Navy Forrestal has estimated in a memorandum to the State Department that this $21,115,020 would be the full cost of the Navy's share of the program. The memorandum says the Navy now is spending $15,628.09 a month to maintain the ships that would be transferred.

The War Department previously had estimated that it would cost about $10,000,000 a year for 10 years to standardize the weapons of the Latin American republics and Canada with those of the United States and train the other nations' soldiers, sailors and airmen here.

Program's Provisions

Under the plan, sent to Congress by the President, the United States could:

1. Transfer arms, ammunition and implements of war to the other nations of the new world.

2. Train the soldiers, sailors and airmen of the American republics in methods used by the United States.

3. Maintain, repair and rehabilitate their planes, tanks, guns and ships.

The objective is to give the land, sea and air forces of the Western Hemisphere identical weapons, organization and training.

Other facts about the Army Air Forces' latest and biggest bomber, now in mass production here, make some of the frontier yarns look like solemn truths. For instance:

The pilots' cockpit is so far from the tail turret that the crew communicates by railroad. A tiny car on tracks shuttles through the pressurized tube that connects the two crew stations.

The B-36 carries enough gasoline to take an automobile around the world 16 times and then turn the 48 states. The six wing tanks hold 21,000 gallons—two and one-half railroad tank cars—of high test gasoline.

The Army Air Forces and the Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corporation, maker of the giant craft, yesterday lifted much of the secrecy which has enwrapped it since its existence first was announced nearly a year ago.

Nearly 300 newspaper men were permitted to inspect the plant where 13 of the craft are on the final assembly line and clamber over and through the most nearly completed ships. The tour produced these further facts, vouched for by Convair:

The B-36 (Hollywood will have to name it) is the world's biggest mass-produced bomber.

Its body has a volume of 17,724 cubic feet, equal to 10 living rooms.

Its bomb bay (room) alone has the space of four freight cars.

Its six 19-foot Curtiss electric-hollow steel propellers are the largest ever installed on an airplane. They resist ice and reverse themselves to act as brakes.

The B-36 has lifted 278,000 pounds—130 tons—the heaviest load ever lifted by a plane.

Action Slated
On Resolution
For CrackdownHearings On Colmer
Measure Will Begin

WASHINGTON, June 8 (P)—Aroused by the latest Soviet moves in Eastern Europe, the House Foreign Affairs Committee has called up for action a resolution demanding that Russia keep its wartime pledges and insisting upon a "firm" American policy.

The resolution had lain dormant since Rep. Colmer (D-Miss.), of the committee, introduced it earlier this session. But on the heels of the Communist coup in Hungary, committee members announced to a reporter today that it has been set for public hearings.

The hearings are scheduled tentatively to start Wednesday. Among those likely to be called to testify are Secretary of State Marshall, Secretary of Commerce Harriman, former ambassador to Moscow, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Army Chief of Staff, and former President Herbert Hoover.

The resolution would record the attitude of Congress in strong terms without specifically binding the administration. But from responsible sources it was learned that Colmer has discussed the move with President Truman, Harriman and State Department officials.

Time For Showdown—Colmer

The resolution declares that certain nations have displayed an "unfriendly attitude" toward the United States. No countries are named, but Colmer said he means Russia and the Soviet satellites. He declared the time has come for a showdown to chart the world on a path of peace or a "muscle-flexing" display of power.

Colmer's resolution would declare that:

1. "No settlement of lend-lease accounts should be made that does not fulfill in full the conditions of the lend-lease act."
2. "All aid in any form" to governments which have failed to carry out their commitments to the United States made since passage of the lend-lease act should end.
3. "An end should be made to all loans from the United States to governments which have failed to carry out their political agreements with the United States."
4. "The government should take appropriate administrative action" to insure screening and control of "all contacts made with these governments by citizens and others within the jurisdiction of the United States including those for the acquisition of technical processes, engineering and other skills, and the production know-how of industrial processes x x x and in particular those items which might facilitate the production of weapons of mass destruction."

Reciprocity In Entry of Nationals

5. "A complete reciprocity of treatment should be afforded to other nations by the United States in the matter of the entry into the United States of agents or other nationals such nations and their access to our industrial plants."
6. "The United States should support only such a carrying out of the Potsdam agreement as genuinely protects the complete freedom of elections in the whole of former enemy countries and prevent the stripping of such countries through excessive reparations."
7. Congress "pledges its support to the President in the execution of the foregoing policies" and for "a firm policy of protecting international law and right and all other true national interests of the United States."
8. "The leaders of other governments throughout the world should be advised that it is and will be the primary objective of the policy of the United States to secure and maintain a just and lasting peace for a free world."

Millions Have Immediate

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Several million taxpayers facing a quarterly income tax payment deadline have an immediate stake in speedy action by President Truman on the tax reduction bill.

Their deadline for payment is the same as the President's deadline for action—midnight, June 16. It would be June 15 if that were not a Sunday.

Republican Wins
Washington Race

OLYMPIA, Wash., June 8 (AP)—A Republican newspaper publisher who upheld the Truman foreign policy defeated a "progressive Democrat" backed by Henry Wallace to win the vacant United States House seat in Washington State's Third District yesterday.

In a close, hotly-contested special election watched throughout the country as a possible indicator of 1948 political sentiment, Republican Russell V. Mack had a margin of slightly more than 1,500 votes over former United States Rep. Charles Savage.

The vote in 573 of the district's 607 precincts gave Mack 32,449 votes to 30,939 for his Democratic opponent.

Returns from the 34 small, unreported precincts could not affect the outcome, and Mack's supporters predicted he would get better than an even break in the nine-county district's 1,768 absentee ballots.

Savage refused to take a direct stand on the Truman-Wallace foreign policy controversy.

Mack said in a statement he understood his election "to mean that the people of the district are solidly back of our nation's bipartisan policy."

Democratic State Chairman Earl Coe, who supported Savage, also said in a statement that Mack's victory "clearly indicates that the people are in favor of a Truman program."

He was overpowered and taken to the hospital where four stitches were sewed in his throat, but he later tore out the stitches and slowly bled to death.

The sheriff said the prisoner had been uncommunicative about his background but that fellow prisoners quoted him as saying, "If the authorities knew it, they could put two more charges against me."

Sternist Admits
He Sent Britons
"Letter Bombs"

Declares One Of 24
Addressed To King

By CARLO MASSARO
GENOA, June 8 (AP)—A man who described himself as a member of the Stern Gang, Jewish underground organization, said today that he personally had mailed 24 "letter bombs" to prominent Britons.

He said he had posted the letters—designed to explode when opened—at the central post office of Turin. One of the 24, he said, was addressed to King George VI, of Britain. He added no more were being sent since the method was now known.

Leaves Genoa For Athens
I talked with the man, who is about 40 and calls himself Ami Kam, just before he left Genoa for Athens, by way of Venice and Trieste.

In London, Scotland Yard expressed interest in the Genoa account. A spokesman reported that new precautions were being taken against the "murder-by-mail bombs," because British police believed the would-be assassins "probably have something else up their sleeves."

Twenty "letter bombs" all of them mailed from Turin, Italy, have been intercepted so far, British sources said. None was reported to have caused any casualty.

Method Of Reprisal
The Stern Gang has issued a statement in Jerusalem acknowledging responsibility for the "letter bombs" as a method of reprisal against British policy in Palestine.

"Kam" gave detailed descriptions of the explosive missiles. He said the 24 envelopes he mailed were of yellow Manila-type paper, the large type used for official communications.

Each, he said, contained exactly 190 grams of explosive, enough, when permitted contact with the air, to kill the opener of the envelope.

Each envelope, he continued, bore 105 lire worth of stamps, purchased at the Turin post office. (Full details on the letters have not been announced in London.)

Physicians Are Urged
To "Kick Out Rascals"

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 8 (AP)—Dr. Paul R. Hawley, medical director for the Veterans Administration, told physicians today that a "grasping and selfish" 10 per cent of their number can give the profession "a bad reputation."

He suggested that medical groups which attempt to charge the VA "all that the traffic would bear" might be in part the cause of "the clamor now in Congress for some regulation of the practice of medicine."

In a speech for a conference of the presidents of state medical associations, Dr. Hawley declared:

"Had organized medicine devoted half as much energy toward kicking out the rascals as it has to protecting them, there would be no more danger of government control of medicine than there now is of government control of the clergy."

Halleck Urges Truman
To Sign Labor And Tax
Bills To Keep "Pledge"

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Rep. Halleck, of Indiana, the House Republican leader, said today the bills to regulate unions and cut income taxes are key parts of the congressional program and called upon President Truman to sign them to keep his pledge of "co-operation."

"The Republican Congress has been doing its part toward enacting into law legislation that we believe the people want," Halleck said in a statement. "It remains to be seen whether President Truman will go along in this program."

Following last November's elections, Halleck said, "the President recognized that the people had spoken; that they had said they had had enough of New Dealism. He pledged co-operation with the newly-elected Congress."

Accident Theory
In Babies' Deaths

MASSILLON, O., June 8 (AP)—A theory that an accident might have led to the deaths of two baby girls in the pediatric ward of City Hospital Friday night is the only preliminary toward a solution of the case, Police Chief Stanley W. Switzer said tonight.

He and Hospital Superintendent E. J. Lincke talked tonight with two small children who are patients in the hospital, but found nothing that would shed any light on the case, the chief said.

Switzer said the investigation was tending toward the accident theory, but did not elaborate on that point.

The victims, Diane J. Brand, 10 weeks, and Rosemary Morton, nine weeks, were discovered dying of skull fractures in Room 407 of the hospital, by a nurse. Ten minutes earlier a nurse had seen them sleeping.

After his conference with Lincke, the chief said the investigation would be resumed in the morning. He ordered another all-night guard at the hospital. Earlier he had been asked by reporters whether there had been a confession, and he replied "No."

"Pressure" Campaign

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) said today that government agencies are using "the most violent pressure campaign I have seen in 14 years" to prevent cuts in federal spending.

Truman Refuses To Give Hint
Of Tax And Labor Bill PlansStory Of Jap
Man-Eaters
Is DisclosedStalked Filipinos
In Reign Of Terror

MANILA, June 8 (AP)—A grisly story of man-eating Japanese soldiers, who stalked Filipinos on cannibalistic forays and sometimes ate one another, came out of the jungles of Northern Mindanao today.

Thirty-one of the Japanese, who surrendered last February, are held in a military stockade at Del Monte, Northern Mindanao, facing more than 20 murder counts in which cannibalism is involved.

The story was told by S. Melville Russey, Bayonne, N. J., of the Army's legal section in Manila, who obtained confessions and interrogated witnesses in six weeks of investigation.

He styled it a chronicle "of cumulative horror with few parallels of surpassing brutality."

Forced To Eat Parents' Flesh
Russey said the case first took form in the story of a Filipino who was forced by the Japanese to taste the flesh of his own parents.

"The Filipino, Felix Sagunwan, 34, identified three of the 31 Japanese soldiers as the ones who broke into his home while he, his father, mother, two sisters, younger brother and sister-in-law were eating their noon meal in November, 1945.

The Japanese bayoneted the father, mother, sister and brother before the horrified eyes of the others and cut flesh from the bodies.

"They cooked the flesh before us," he related. "After eating all they wanted, they placed the human meat on a plate and ordered us to eat. We refused, sickened by the thought."

Girls Abducted By Japs
"Then one of the Japanese held a rifle at my back and prodded me with the muzzle. I then tasted that meat. The two girls were forced to do likewise.

"The Japanese laughed and made fun of us. Then they spread a mat and forced by sister Emiliana and Felisa, my elder brother's wife, to make love to them."

The girls were carried off that night and never seen again.

Lt. Hajime Akinaka, an Army medical corpsman, in his confession admitted that the Japanese, also ate one another.

Kilgore Warns Farben
Cartel Being Rebuilt

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Kilgore (D-WVa.) declared tonight that some persons who "endangered" the nation's safety by preventing participation in the German I. G. Farben cartel "have not learned a lesson but are working even now to rebuild this dangerous structure."

Kilgore said war crimes indictments against 24 I. G. Farben officials in Germany constitute a "moral indictment against some American industrialists who gambled for high profits at the risk of endangering our entire economic mobilization just prior to World War II."

He did not name them.

The Farben indictments, Kilgore said in a talk recorded for radio broadcast in West Virginia, also "more than substantiate" charges made by a Senate Military Affairs Subcommittee during a cartel investigation two years ago. Kilgore was the subcommittee chairman.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., June 8 (AP)—The National Federation of Telephone Workers, 10-year-old group that led the recent telephone strike, was dissolved today.

President To Leave
For Canada Tonight

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—President Truman returned today from a weekend reunion with World War I buddies in Kansas City to confront labor and tax cut bills awaiting his signature or veto and said he would give no "inkling" of what he was going to do or when.

It appeared unlikely that he would act on either measure before his return from a three-day official visit to Canada on which he will leave by train tomorrow night. He is to address the Canadian Parliament on Wednesday.

The presidential plane, landed beneath rain clouds at National Airport here at 2:53 p. m. (EST) after a flight of three hours and 51 minutes.

Had "Fine Trip"
Mr. Truman told newsmen he had a "fine trip" and that his 94-year-old mother, Mrs. Martha E. Truman, is "doing fine—she's doing very well."

But he would not discuss the bill for curbing unions which is to reach his desk tomorrow nor the tax reduction bill already there, even to the extent of his remark in Kansas City that he would give no "inkling" of his plans in advance.

He was greeted at the airport by his daughter, Miss Margaret Truman, and her friend, Miss Drucile Snyder, daughter of Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Snyder, and drove directly to the White House.

The presidential plane, the so-called "Sacred Cow" took off from Fairfax Airport in Kansas at 11:02 a. m. (EST) with the Washington reporters who had accompanied him there in another plane stranded for a few hours.

Newsmen's Plane Breaks Down
Their commerial, chartered ship, a TWA Constellation, developed a faulty engine this morning on an early tuneup and a substitute plane had to be flown in from the East, delaying their scheduled departure until about 4:30 p. m. (EST).

The President, declining to say whether he will veto the bill cutting taxes by four billion dollars, wouldn't give the newsmen even "an inkling" of whether he will act Monday.

Told that his press secretary, Charles G. Ross, had said yesterday he probably will wait until after his return from Canada next Friday, the President smilingly observed:

"Charlie's guess is as good as anybody's. I'm not going to give you an inkling of what I'm going to do or when."

France Organizes
Motor Transport

PARIS, June 8 (AP)—Union leaders of France's striking railroad workers appealed tonight to Premier Paul Ramadier to reopen negotiations toward ending the three-day-old strike, but the government, which has instituted an emergency motorized transport service, made no immediate response.

The government, giving every evidence of preparing for a long siege, announced tonight its prompt long distance bus service would be trebled tomorrow and issued an appeal for more buses to provide emergency passenger service.

The transportation ministry added that its extra plane service would be augmented tomorrow and further increased Tuesday "if the strike is prolonged."

Buses and private cars already have been mobilized, some with Army drivers, to carry passengers at third class rates to destinations in all corners of France.

The rail strike, which started Friday after union leaders failed to agree with the transportation ministry over workers' demands for wage increases and job reclassification, was complete today except for a few minor lines in the provinces.

Presidential Approval
Of Rent Bill Predicted

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Two senators working on the final draft of the new rent control bill permitting a 15 per cent increase in some cases predicted today that President Truman will sign it.

Sens. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and Sparkman (D-Ala.), who made the forecast, told a reporter they expect the Senate-House conference committee of which they are members to complete the bill by Wednesday.

The final version then must be approved by the Senate and House before going to the President.

Both chambers voted originally for the provision permitting landlords to raise rents up to 15 per cent in return for a lease running through 1948 where the tenant agrees.

U. S. Navy Ready
To Send 121 Ships
To Latin America

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—The Navy is ready to transfer four cruisers and 117 smaller vessels to Latin American nations, officials disclosed today, if Congress approves President Truman's hemisphere arms standardization program.

The Navy has earmarked two light cruisers for Brazil and one each for Chile and Peru. The total of 121 vessels to be transferred includes 37 wartime combat ships now valued at $9,286,570 and 84 non-combat ships at $11,328,450. The combat ships besides the four cruisers are 33 destroyer escorts.

$21,115,020 Navy's Cost
Secretary of the Navy Forrestal has estimated in a memorandum to the State Department that this $21,115,020 would be the full cost of the Navy's share of the program. The memorandum says the Navy now is spending $15,628,000 a month to maintain the ships that would be transferred.

The War Department previously had estimated that it would cost about $10,000,000 a year for 10 years to standardize the weapons of the Latin American republics and Canada with those of the United States and train the other nations' soldiers, sailors and airmen here.

Program's Provisions
Under the plan, sent to Congress by the President, the United States could:

1. Transfer arms, ammunition and implements of war to the other nations of the new world.

2. Train the soldiers, sailors and airmen of the American republics in methods used by the United States.

3. Maintain, repair and rehabilitate their planes, tanks, guns and ships.

The objective is to give the land, sea and air forces of the Western Hemisphere identical weapons, organization and training.

Facts About AAF's New B-36 Bomber
Confound Texas' Tall-Tale Tellers

FORT WORTH, Tex., June 8 (AP)—Texans are noted for tall tales. The tallest Texas tall this season is on the B-36—and it's all true, all 46 feet, seven inches of it.

Other facts about the Army Air Forces' latest and biggest bomber, now in mass production here, make some of the frontier yarns look like solemn truths. So far as:

The pilots' cockpit is 30 feet from the tail turret that the crew communicates by railroad. A tiny car on tracks shuttles through the pressurized tube that connects the two crew stations.

The B-36 carries enough gasoline to take an automobile around the world 16 times and then turn the 48 states. The six wing tanks hold 21,000 gallons—two and one-half railroad tank cars—of high test gasoline.

The B-36 (Hollywood will have to name it) is the world's biggest mass-produced bomber.

Its body has a volume of 17,724 cubic feet, equal to 10 living rooms.

Its bomb bay (room) alone has the space of four freight cars.

Its six 18-foot Curtiss electric-hollow shaft propellers are the largest ever installed on an airplane.

They resist ice and reverse themselves to act as brakes.

The B-36 has lifted 278,000 pounds—120 tons—the heaviest load ever lifted by a plane.

Action Slated
On Resolution
For CrackdownHearings On Colmer
Measure Will Begin

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Aroused by the latest Soviet moves in Eastern Europe, the House Foreign Affairs Committee has called up for action a resolution demanding that Russia keep its wartime pledges and insisting upon a "firm" American policy.

The resolution had lain dormant since Rep. Colmer (D-Miss.), of the committee, introduced it earlier this session. But on the heels of the Communist coup in Hungary, committee members announced to a reporter today that it has been set for public hearings.

The hearings are scheduled tentatively to start Wednesday. Among those likely to be called to testify are Secretary of State Marshall, Secretary of Commerce Harriman, former ambassador to Moscow, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Army Chief of Staff, and former President Herbert Hoover.

The resolution would record the attitude of Congress in strong terms without specifically binding the administration. But from responsible sources it was learned that Colmer has discussed the move with President Truman, the President and State Department officials.

Time For Showdown—Colmer
The resolution declares that certain nations have displayed an "unfriendly attitude" toward the United States. No countries are named, but Colmer said he means Russia and the Soviet satellites. He declared: "Time has come for a showdown to clear the world on a path of peace or a 'muscle-flexing' display of power."

Colmer's resolution would declare that:

1. "No settlement of lend-lease accounts should be made that does not fulfill in full the conditions of the lend-lease act."
2. "All aid in any form" to governments which have failed to carry out their commitments to the United States made since passage of the lend-lease act should end.
3. "An end should be made to all loans from the United States to those governments which have failed to carry out their political agreements with the United States."
4. "The government should take appropriate administrative action" to insure screening and control of "all contacts made with these governments by citizens and others within the jurisdiction of the United States including those for the acquisition of technical processes, engineering and other skills, and the production 'know-how' of industrial processes x x x and in particular those items which might facilitate the production of weapons of mass destruction."

Reciprocity In Entry of Nationals
5. "A complete reciprocity of treatment should be afforded to citizens of the United States in other nations by the United States in the matter of the entry into the United States of agents or other nationals such nations and their access to our industrial plants."

6. "The United States should support only such a carrying out of the Foreign Relations Administration as protects the complete freedom of elections in the whole of former enemy countries and prevent the stripping of such countries through excessive reparations."

7. Congress "pledges its support to the President in the execution of the foregoing policies" and for "a firm policy of protecting international law and right and all other true national interests of the United States."

8. "The leaders of other governments throughout the world should be advised that it is and will be the primary objective of the policy of the United States to secure and maintain a just and lasting peace for a free world."

Stranded Mine Work Stoppages Reported In Pa.

Believed Protest Against Labor Bill

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 8 (AP)—Scattered work stoppages throughout the rich southwestern Pennsylvania bituminous region were reported tonight by union leaders who could not agree on the cause, but who indicated the troubled situation was allied to resentment over pending labor legislation.

Mines effected employ about 6,600 men.

Andrew S. Rayner, head of Local 6326, of the AFL-United Mine Workers at the Gates mine of the H. C. Frick Coal and Coke Company, Fayette County, said cutters stopped work Friday night and stayed out yesterday.

Declaring the union had not called a strike, he said: "A few men came over from other plants and said a general strike was on." Rayner said he was not going to order a return to work because "I had nothing to do with their coming out. They were misinformed by outsiders."

William J. Hines, UMW District Four president, and Michael H. Hines, district secretary-treasurer, could not be reached for comment.

John Ozanich, president of Robena Local 6321, Fayette County, said the men held a meeting and "decided to join a general strike against the Ellender-Taft bill." He also said "the men think President Truman will veto the anti-strike bill if all the men come out on strike." He said another meeting was planned next week to discuss the situation.

Equestrienne Injured, Horse Killed By Bus

PHILADELPHIA, June 8 (AP)—A 16-year-old equestrienne was injured critically and her horse killed today in a collision with a Schuylkill Transportation Company bus.

The girl, Peggy Farrell, was hurled beneath the wheels of a bus carrying some 40 persons from Norris-town, Pa., to a Philadelphia church.

Fairmount Park Guard Daniel Cocco said Miss Farrell was following a companion, Daniel Mooney, 11, on their way back from a center along the Schuylkill River. At an intersection, the girl's horse bolted into the path of the bus, Cocco said.

but no deaths or even injuries were reported to city police.

At least 25 houses in the center of the city—where the blow was fiercest—were severely battered, a number losing their roofs. Hundreds of trees were uprooted, scores of automobiles damaged, and street and traffic lights were out through the night when power was shut off.

Man And Wife Plunge 17 Floors In Death Leaps

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—Horace S. Marshall, 36-year-old attorney, and his wife, Mrs. Amelia Marshall, also 36 and likewise an attorney, fell to their deaths today, police said, in separate leaps from their 17th floor penthouse apartment.

Police listed the deaths as suicides and gave this account:

Marshall stepped out to the balcony of the apartment after spending the afternoon in the apartment with his wife, climbed a four-foot-high fence and leaped to the pavement.

His wife, notified of her husband's death, went to the street and saw his body. Clad only in a nightgown and a coat, she returned to the apartment, locked the door, and leaped from the same balcony in the presence of police.

Yachtsman Is Burned When Boat Explodes

SUE ISLAND, Md., June 8 (AP)—Yachtsman Charles L. Lutz, 32, Bel Air, whose 30-foot motor boat blew up today in Middle River, was brought here by rescue craft and treated for burns of the hands and face.

Lutz, who said his $10,000 yacht was a total loss, said he and Robert Hawkins, 31, Bel Air, were cruising off the Glenn L. Martin aircraft testing station when the blast occurred.

He said he was blown into the water and later was picked up by a passing boat, which also rescued Hawkins from the stern of the blazing yacht.

$300 Offered For Three Pieces Of Wrecked Plane

BAINBRIDGE, Md., June 8 (AP)—CAB investigators probing the disastrous crash of an Eastern Airlines plane near Port Deposit May 30 today were hunting for three pieces taken from the wreckage by souvenir hunters—and were ready to pay $100 for each of the fragments.

The Douglas Aircraft Corporation, manufacturers of the ill-fated DC-4 whose mysterious crash cost 53 lives, will pay the reward. Without recovery of these "very important pieces," the CAB says, the cause of the crash may not be determined.

The tip of a propeller blade, a bracket for the hinges of one of the plane's elevators, and a piece of metal to which the bracket was attached are the missing parts.

American Woman Found Shot To Death Near Tokyo

TOKYO, Monday, June 9 (AP)—The body of an American woman with two bullet holes in her head was found early this morning by Japanese police in Nakano Ward, about six miles from the center of Tokyo.

American authorities confirmed discovery of the body, but declined identification or further details. Military police were investigating.

Low-Flying Plane Claims Boy's Life

OWOSSO, Mich., June 8 (AP)—A 14-year-old boy was killed by the whirling propeller of a low-flying plane tonight and two companions with whom he was swimming narrowly escaped death.

A student pilot of the craft and a passenger were held without charge pending a coroner's inquest. The victim was James Evans, whose head was cut in two by the small plane a moment before it plunged and sank in 20 feet of water in a gravel pit 10 miles east of here.

His buddies, Bob Denison, 14, and Owen Sudman, 16, told authorities the three were standing on a sandbar ready to dive when the plane circled about 15 feet above the water.

Undersheriff James Wood quoted them as saying they dived into the water when the craft approached a second time but Jimmy was struck before he could dive.

The pilot, Harold Ferrell, of Flint, 19-year-old ex-serviceman, and Lamont Fisher, 21, of nearby Durant, climbed out of the sunken plane unhurt and swam to shore.

Over Half Of Wartime Army Prisoners Freed

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—The War Department tonight reported that more than half of the wartime military prisoners now have been freed and upheld the Army in not granting a general amnesty as soon as the war ended.

This would have been "unfair to the great body of soldiers who fulfilled their obligations with honor," said the board of civilians and officers headed by Owen J. Roberts, retired Supreme Court justice.

The board, making its final report, said that more than 68 per cent of the 34,766 military prisoners under confinement in October, 1945, have now been unconditionally released and many others are on home parole.

Created two years ago after charges had arisen of too-harsh punishment, the clemency board reviewed 28,717 cases.

Minister And His Wife Beat Off Negro Intruder

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—A 69-year-old Brooklyn Presbyterian minister and his wife today beat off a negro intruder who, police said, attempted to rape the minister's wife. The clergyman, who followed the intruder to the street, held the negro at bay with a golf club until police radio car arrived.

The minister, Rev. Alvin E. Magary, and his wife, Marion, 40, told police the negro attempted to shoot them but his gun did not fire.

The intruder, who identified himself as George Smith, 20, of Brooklyn, fractured his left knee in leaping out of a second story window of the Magary home, police said.

Boy Is Feared Drowned; Boats, Plane Seek Body

CAMBRIDGE, Md., June 8 (AP)—A crowd of 400 neighbors lined the shore of Shoal Creek this afternoon as 15 fishing smacks, police boats and a private plane joined in the search for the body of school-boy Albinus Paul, Jr., 13, feared drowned in a "horsehole."

Dorchester County Sheriff Waldo Robinson said Paul, riding a log with Bernard Windsor, 13, at 11 a. m., had slipped off and disappeared 50 yards offshore.

Windsor, who kept his grip on the log, was rescued by a young Army veteran, John W. Robertson, who had been swimming nearby, the sheriff said.

Scattered Mine Work Stoppages Reported In Pa.

Believed Protest Against Labor Bill

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 8 (AP)—Scattered work stoppages throughout the rich southwestern Pennsylvania bituminous region were reported tonight by union leaders who could not agree on the cause, but who indicated the troubled situation was allied to resentment over pending labor legislation.

Mines effected employ about 8,000 men.

Andrew S. Rayner, head of Local 6328, of the AFI-United Mine Workers at the Gates mine of the H. C. Frick Coal and Coke Company, Fayette County, said cutters stopped work Friday night and stayed out yesterday.

Declaring the union had not called a strike, he said: "A few men came over from other plants and said a general strike was on." Rayner said he was not going to order a return to work because "I had nothing to do with their coming out. They were misinformed by outsiders."

William J. Hines, UMW District Four president, and Michael Honus, district secretary-treasurer, could not be reached for comment.

John Olanich, president of Robena Local 6321, Fayette County, said the men held a meeting and "decided to join a general strike against the Ellender-Taft bill."

He also said "the men think President Truman will veto the anti-strike bill. All the men come out on strike." He said another meeting was planned next week to discuss the situation.

Equestrienne Injured, Horse Killed By Bus

PHILADELPHIA, June 8 (AP)—A 16-year-old equestrienne was injured critically and her horse killed today in a collision with a Schuylkill Transportation Company bus.

The girl, Peggy Farrell, was hurled beneath the wheels of a bus carrying some 40 persons from Norristown, Pa., to a Philadelphia church.

Fairmount Park Guard Daniel Cocco said Miss Farrell was following a companion, Daniel Mooney, 11, on their way back from a center along the Schuylkill River. At an intersection, the girl's horse bolted into the path of the bus, Cocco said.

but no deaths or even injuries were reported to city police.

At least 25 houses in the center of the city—where the blow was fiercest—were severely battered, a number losing their roofs. Hundreds of trees were uprooted, and street and traffic lights were out through the night when power was shut off.

Man And Wife Plunge 17 Floors In Death Leaps

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—Horace S. Marshall, 38-year-old attorney, and his wife, Mrs. Amelia Marshall, also 38 and likewise an attorney, fell to their deaths today, police said, in separate leaps from their 17th floor penthouse apartment.

Police listed the deaths as suicides and gave this account: Marshall stepped out to the balcony of the apartment after spending the afternoon in the apartment with his wife, climbed a four-foot-high fence and leaped to the pavement.

His wife, notified of her husband's death, went to the street and saw his body. Clad only in a nightgown and a coat, she returned to the apartment, locked the door, and leaped from the same balcony in the presence of police.

SUE ISLAND, Md., June 8 (AP)—Yachtsman Charles L. Lutz, 32, Bel Air, whose 30-foot motor boat blew up today in Middle River, was brought here by rescue craft and treated for burns of the hands and face.

Lutz, who said his $10,000 yacht was a total loss, said he and Robert Hawkins, 31, Bel Air, were cruising off the Glenn L. Martin aircraft testing station when the blast occurred.

He said he was blown into the water and later was picked up by a passing boat, which also rescued Hawkins from the stern of the blazing yacht.

$300 Offered For Three Pieces Of Wrecked Plane

BAINBRIDGE, Md., June 8 (AP)—CAB investigators probing the disastrous crash of an Eastern Airlines plane near Port Deposit May 30 today were hunting for three pieces taken from the wreckage by souvenir hunters—and were ready to pay $100 for each of the fragments.

The Douglas Aircraft Corporation, manufacturers of the ill-fated DC-4 whose mysterious crash cost 53 lives, will pay the reward. Without recovery of these "very important pieces," the CAB says, the cause of the crash may not be determined.

The tip of a propeller blade, a bracket for the hinges of one of the plane's elevators, and a piece of metal to which the bracket was attached are the missing parts.

American Woman Found Shot To Death Near Tokyo

TOKYO, Monday, June 9 (AP)—The body of an American woman with two bullet holes in her head was found early this morning by Japanese police in Nakano Ward, about six miles from the center of Tokyo.

Low-Flying Plane Claims Boy's Life

OWOSO, Mich., June 8 (AP)—A 14-year-old boy was killed by the whirling propeller of a low-flying plane tonight and two companions with whom he was swimming narrowly escaped death.

A student pilot of the craft and a passenger were held without charge pending a coroner's inquest.

The victim was James Evans, whose head was cut in two by the small plane a moment before it plunged and sank in 20 feet of water in a gravel pit 10 miles east of here.

His buddies, Bob Denison, 14, and Owen Sudman, 16, told authorities the three were standing on a sandbar ready to dive when the plane circled about 15 feet above the water.

Undersheriff James Wood quoted them as saying they dived into the water when the craft approached a second time but Jimmy was struck before he could dive.

The pilot, Harold Ferrell, of Flint, 19-year-old ex-serviceman, and Lamont Fisher, 21, of nearby Durant, climbed out of the sunken plane unhurt and swam to shore.

Over Half Of Wartime Army Prisoners Freed

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—The War Department clemency board reported tonight that well over half of the wartime military prisoners now have been freed and upheld the Army in not granting a general amnesty as soon as the war ended.

This would have been "unfair to the great body of soldiers who fulfilled their obligations with honor," said the board of civilians and officers headed by Owen J. Roberts, retired Supreme Court justice.

The board, making its final report, said that more than 68 per cent of the 34,766 military prisoners under confinement in October, 1945, have now been unconditionally released and many others are on home parole.

Created two years ago after charges had arisen of too-harsh punishment, the clemency board reviewed 28,717 cases.

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—A 60-year-old Brooklyn Presbyterian minister and his wife today beat off a negro intruder who, police said, attempted to rape the minister's wife. The clergyman, who followed the intruder to the street, held the negro at bay with a golf club until police radio car arrived.

The minister, Rev. Alvin E. Magary, and his wife, Marion, 40, told police the negro attempted to shoot them but his gun did not fire.

The intruder, who identified himself as George Smith, 20, of Brooklyn, fractured his left knee in leaping out of a second story window of the Magary home, police said.

A man identified as Jack Murphy, 218 Arch Street, is being held in City Jail for Maryland State Police Trooper William P. Baker, the arresting officer, said Murphy is being held for investigation. He was arrested early yesterday morning.

Boy Is Feared Drowned; Boats, Plane Seek Body

CAMBRIDGE, Md., June 8 (AP)—A crowd of 400 neighbors lined the shore of Shoal Creek this afternoon as 15 fishing snags, police boats and a private plane joined in the search for the body of school-boy Albanus Paul, Jr., 13, feared drowned in a "horsehole."

Dorchester County Sheriff Waldo Robinson said Paul, riding a log with Bernard Windsor, 13, at 11 a. m., had slipped off and disappeared 50 yards offshore.

Windsor, who kept his grip on the log, was rescued by a young Army veteran, John W. Robertson, who had been swimming nearby, the sheriff said.

Cancer Progress?

The great danger in writing about a new scientific development in its early stages is that one may raise false hopes—and thereby bring scientists into undeserved dispute. The fact that preliminary experiments does not prove that a cure or a process has been established.

Scientists make no such premature claims. They know that searching tests must be devised, and more of them—and that widespread practical application may uncover flaws.

With this warning, it may be safe to say that there has been a new development in cancer research that looks as if it may be the most important yet made. While it offers no new cure to persons already afflicted, it will—if it lives up to early tests—lead to its discovery while it is still curable.

That is not possible now. Many of the more serious forms of internal cancer cannot in most cases be discovered until it is too late to do anything about them. But now researchers have stumbled upon a simple test which so far seems to reveal the presence of cancer in 39 cases out of 40. An alcohol-ether extract prepared from the urine of persons being examined is injected into laboratory animals, some of whose glands become greatly enlarged if the person has cancer.

If further tests do not invalidate the technique, the results should be revolutionary. Early discovery is the next best thing to cure, as the experience with tuberculosis indicates. Though there is no cure for tuberculosis, that disease has ceased to be the scourge it once was because it can usually be discovered in its early stages.

If cancer, similarly, can be subjected to early treatment by surgery, X-rays or radium therapy—the only methods yet known which are not outright quackery—most of its horrors will disappear.

What with the family planning a picnic the first day of the Fourth of July holiday weekend, a long motor trip the second and going to a baseball game on the third, our neighbor says the Fourth looks like strictly a "cost" weekend.

Fair Federal Taxes

The House Ways and Means Committee has begun hearings on a general tax program which, while it is not likely to reach the House as a definite proposal before next year, should result in removing the injustices which have done so much to curb individual initiative. This plan for a so-called permanent tax structure is entirely separate from the current drive to effect a slight reduction in income taxes.

The present tax structure was created on a soak-the-rich policy laid down more than a decade ago. It was begun on a formula of levying income taxes according to ability to pay. This, carried to its present extreme, means the politicians will take all a taxpayer has but no more.

War demands for money were so insistent that Congress had little time to work out a fair tax structure. It retained the New Deal evils and added to them as it dipped into low income groups for money. One year it enacted a tax law which the Treasury's glub experts could not interpret.

Among reforms which now are mandated to liberate the country's production plant from tax brakes is correcting the double taxation of corporation profits, restoring the earned income formula in effect prior to 1942, adjusting taxes to income received in one year for work done through several years, making the splitting of incomes of married couples nationwide, and increasing deductions for net losses.

A fair tax law can be written by any Congress which discards the penalty idea and seeks a way to syphon the money from production at points where it will do the least harm to the country's general prosperity.

Toughness In Order

The "additional report" submitted to the Senate by the joint congressional committee on non-essential federal expenditures should strengthen the determination of economy-minded Congressmen.

As of January 31, according to the report, there were 1,341,683 more persons on the government's payroll than in 1939—despite a net decline of 1,476,437 from June 30, 1945, the wartime peak. Furthermore, the report says that employment in non-war departments and agencies of the government actually increased by 318,167 between June 30, 1945, and January 31 of this year.

Other interesting data included in this study might be cited but this is enough to show that the federal establishment has been expanding, as far as its peacetime components are concerned, during the transition period since the war ended. One reason for this is that certain functions have merely been transferred from war agencies that were supposedly abolished. When the appropriation of one of these set-ups is cut, the bureaucrats in charge spend months in frantic attempts—usually successful—to transfer their personnel to soft berths elsewhere within the government.

In addition to this, it appears that the bureaus have been doing what bureaus always do if given the chance. They have been growing. The report is convincing evidence that the President's budget can and should be cut—drastically.

Tax Payers Week

The gentleman who thought up the idea of a "NATIONAL Be Kind to Taxpayers Week" deserves a pat on the back but not for originality. We have already set aside 61 National Weeks for 1947.

Now, for the first time, we are to have a "Be Kind to Taxpayers Week." Frankly we can't think of a more necessary week and we hope it will serve to notify Congress in no uncertain terms that the people of this country are fed up with federal waste and extravagance.

We hope the clamor for reduced federal spending will be sufficient to drown out the walls and moans of the army of federal employees seeking to perpetuate their positions on the federal payroll.

Citizen response to this rather unique call to action will determine whether or not we shall continue wartime spending into 1948.

It may well determine whether or not we shall remain a solvent nation!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

IRON AND COPPER PRODUCE HEMOGLOBIN

IN ORDER to function adequately the body requires many minerals such as iodine, magnesium, calcium, phosphorus, and others. Iron and copper are equally important and they are paired because of their interdependence.

We derive our iron chiefly from eggs, molasses, liver and other organs, dried fruits, nuts, and whole grains. When nutrition reaches the stomach, the hydrochloric acid of the gastric juice dissolves the mineral and prepares it for assimilation. Ascorbic acid (vitamin C) and bile are also thought to play a role in its absorption. A deficiency of any of these substances will interfere with iron metabolism.

At any rate, after passing thru the intestinal wall, it is carried via the circulation to the liver and spleen for storage or to the bone marrow, where it will produce hemoglobin. This coloring matter is the pigment in the red corpuscles and its duty is to transport oxygen to the tissues.

The system absorbs only as much iron as needed. After its quota is taken, any excess is eliminated via the stools. It is surprising how little is called for when digestion is normal—0.006 grams daily. Estimates reveal that only one part in 25,000 of our entire weight is composed of this metallic ingredient; that is, an adult can boast of one-tenth of an ounce. Nevertheless, if the amount is depleted, anemia ensues. The skin becomes pale, the nails rustless and flattened, and alterations in the hair, tongue, and lips will be noted. When the condition is severe, marked loss of strength follows.

But the requirements vary. At times there is a greater demand for hemoglobin formation, as during growth, pregnancy, and nursing. The same situation arises after hemorrhage or when a person has been on a diet low in iron for a long period. Anemia, grimes follows gastrointestinal disturbances such as diarrhea; the existence of worms may likewise be responsible.

Our knowledge of copper is not so well established. It is believed that this element aids the body in changing iron to hemoglobin. Only infinitesimal portions are necessary—0.001 grams daily. The total copper content of the body is between 100 and 150 milligrams (0.0003 ounce), and it is stored largely in the liver. Nevertheless the substance is indispensable.

It is doubtful if any one ever develops a deficiency because an ample supply is obtained from the foods which the majority of us eat, particularly if we include fruits, vegetables, whole grain products, and liver in the diet. As with iron, the needs are greater during childhood and pregnancy.

There are instances in the medical literature of infants especially who did not respond to iron alone; after copper was administered, they made rapid strides. In other words, a more efficient utilization of iron is possible in the presence of copper. Toxic doses may be ingested if foods are prepared with copper utensils or if the element is added to vegetables to preserve the green color.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

A boiler plant in St. Louis just instituted a "worry" room where the workers can go when they want to relax from the noise of their surroundings. There are easy chairs, no telephones and talking is barred. It's a sort of padded cell with a chaise longue.

The first man to use the "worry" room walked in and spent three hours just staring and waiting before he found out it wasn't a vice-president's office.

And then there was a worker who had a lot to worry about but he never showed up. He had nervously tapped a pencil against the table. They threw him out. They claimed he was secretly talking to Morse code.

Of course it takes a great deal of attention and care to keep the W.R. in good condition. Every night a janitor has to go in and sweep out the fingernails.

And when you leave the worry room without grey hair, the boss gives you five demerits for not concentrating.

One of my spies at the plant told me that last week they had a very serious case. They caught a guy working when he should have been worrying.

Of course these days there isn't much chance to get into the worry room. It's filled with nothing but Democrats.

In California they don't have W. R.'s. They're too busy worrying from the outside about getting any kind of room.

Some of the Hollywood agents managed to get them. Small ones, of course. They only have 10 per cent of the problem.

My writers don't have a worry room. Each one of them requires a whole floor. They love to pace.

But the happiest one I know is my brother. He doesn't have any need for a worry room at all. Where he is, he's got plenty of time to think it over.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Argentina Has Five Year Plan For Military Expansion; Hot Argument Inside State Department Over Selling Arms To Argentina.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON. — The final decision to sell arms to President Peron of Argentina and to oust Peron's enemy, Spruille Braden, as Secretary of State probably will go down in history as one of the most momentous the United States has made in many years. It was attended by some soul-searching conferences inside the State Department with Braden lined up on one side and various military advisers on the other.

Because the decision was so important, it may be well to review some of the backstage arguments put forward by both sides.

Chief point which big, burly Spruille Braden made to Secretary Marshall was that the United States and Argentina enjoyed perfectly normal relations in every possible way except one—namely the United States declined to sell Peron arms. We exchange ambassadors. We buy all the goods Argentina will sell us except fresh meat. And we have unfrozen all Argentine credits in the United States. However, argued Braden, Argentina is a dictatorship suspected by other Latin American neighbors of having designs on their territory. Therefore, the United States should not increase her power by selling arms.

Others of Marshall's advisers, especially his old friends in the War Department, maintained that if the United States refused to sell arms to an anti-Soviet bloc in the Western Hemisphere it must cooperate with the Argentine Army and Navy.

Braden, in turn, brought out a copy of the Argentine 5-year plan, a highly illuminating document, indicating that President Peron planned to set up a vigorous fascist state right under the nose of the Pan American Union.

Braden also pointed out that Peron had trained for a time under Roberto Farinacci, Secretary General of the Italian Fascist Party, and that two of his chief supporters were Ludwig Freude, a German Nazi, and Heinrich Doerge, former adviser to Hjalmar Schacht.

Peron's 5-year plan, which Braden condensed for General Marshall's study, is a sweeping blueprint to build up Argentina as the most powerful military nation in South America. It calls for stepping up the Argentine birth rate, control of all raw materials in South America, dispersal of Argentine industry as a protection against bombing, intensive experimentation in atomic laboratories, control of the judiciary and other suppressive measures.

Braden also pointed out that the 5-year plan was not merely a document on paper, but actually was being put into effect. Here are some of the 5-year steps Peron already has taken:

1. Control of the judiciary—Four out of five judges on the Argentine Supreme Court already have been impeached. Peron did not even give them a trial. The fifth judge was a Peron stooge. Scores of other lesser judges have been ousted.

2. Control of education—Peron has already fired 700 professors from Argentine universities. He has also placed six national universities, hitherto centers of pro-democratic thought, under the control of six specially selected pro-Peron rectors. Finally, he has established his own National Council of Education with authority to run all primary and secondary schools. This is the pattern followed by Hitler and Mussolini when they came to power.

3. Control of labor—The Confederation General de Trabajadores, largest labor union in Argentina, has been taken over by Peron. No strike can be called if Peron opposes. Union men calling a strike are summarily fined, in some cases jailed.

4. Freedom of Press? — Control of Press—While there is official freedom of the press, the press is under a heavy thumb.

Whether you think so or not, my dear Johnny, Broadway is full of smart fellows. There's a gent with a head full of know-how leaning against every lamppost. Walk in to a Times Square drugstore for a malted, and the guy on the next stool is apt to be a Pulitzer prize playwright, a crack scenic designer, or a double-A ASCAP songwriter.

But walk down a midway and talk to the barkers and cotton-candy peddlers, the weight-guessers and mait-joint proprietors. Sure, these carry boys make colorful chatter. But compare them with the George Kaufmans and the George Abbots, with Oscar Hammerstein the 2nd and Lee Shubert

Peron exercises powerful indirect control by his supervision of newspaper, his influence over newspaper labor unions, and the practice of levying large fines on hostile newspapers which violate official ordinance.

5. Control of movies and radio—The Argentine Government now owns the two largest radio stations in the country. All other stations are required to submit advance radio scripts on political questions for censorship. Several motion-picture houses have been closed for showing pictures disrespectful of the government.

6. Secret police—Peron has established his own secret police, based on the Nazi and Soviet pattern. Several hundred Gestapo agents are on the lookout for anyone hostile to the Peron regime. Result is that some of the top officers of the navy who were too "independent" have been dismissed.

7. Argentine expansion—In addition to increasing the Argentine birth rate, the Peron 5-year plan calls for selective immigration from Europe. Peron has sent two special commissions to Spain and Italy to select "racially pure" immigrants. His goal is to increase Argentina's population from its present 14,000,000 to 100,000,000 in the next 50 years.

These were some of the things Braden put before Marshall and Truman in arguing that the United States could not afford to sell arms to a potentially fascist nation. In the end, he was overruled, chiefly on the ground that the United States needed a solid hemisphere against Russia, and that not even Argentina could be left out of that solidarity.

Note—One factor contributing to the 1st. Then ask yourself which set of minds you'd rather go up against.

Every midway in the world—no exceptions—is ready to be knocked off by a firecracker kid with a little imagination. These tinsel thoroughfares are still getting by on the attractions that raked in the tuppences in Queen Victoria's time. Except for the parachute jump, business is substantially the same as it was in the buttonshoe days when Tillyou, Thompson and Dundy were the midway monarchs.

Every other kind of show business has kept an eye on the calendar. The movies have learned how to talk and make their heroines bluish in Technicolor. Dancing in the musical theatre has graduated from belly to ballet. The legit has moved up from "Uncle Tom's Cabin" to "The Great Waltz." But the midway business is still coasting along on Jo-Jo, the dog-faced boy, and "Throw a Dart at the Balloons."

And don't listen to the gent with the checked suit and the genuine diamond ring who tells you I don't know what I'm talking about.

Oh, yes I do! I remember three big midways at three world's fairs—New York, San Francisco, Cleveland. These midways stretched for miles, chock-ablock with peepshows, snake shows, and pickled babies in bottles. These catch-penny attractions tried to buck the Aquacade, a 20th Century show. What happened to them shouldn't happen to a two-headed dog? They drowned in the lake. The modern spectacle sucked up every loose quarter like a vacuum cleaner. Barkers and performers learned a lot about pinocchio those seasons, waiting for the Big Show to break, and pour some people back on the midway.

The next time you're at a carnival, Johnny, take a look at that shooting gallery. You'll see the same old pigeons and pocket-marked chickens your grandfather used to bounce 22's off. Take a hinge at the peepshow with the four creaky cuties in harem pants, giving it the indifferent wiggle. And remember, this is 1947, when half a buck buys a peek at Rita Hayworth and two million dollars' worth of celluloid wonderland. Blow in the wind, blowing baseballs at the stuffed pussycat. And then think of tomorrow's television, in which Joe Louis will knock his opponent right into your lap in the parlor. Then try the various rides. See if the mechanical shake-em-ups do anything but spoil your appetite. It would be worth your while to invent a couple of new rides, Johnny. That's gold in them thar thrills!

Where will you get the money to build a new ride, set up a new concession? Where do you think you'd get the money to do a $200,000 musical? From backers—angels who invest money in what they think are hot ideas. They invest that kind of money in state operettas every season. Why couldn't you sell them on an enterprise that runs for years once it clicks? After 35 years, Steeplechase Park is still a better property than "Call Me Mister."

If you think you have what it takes, Johnny, bite into this candy apple. It shouldn't be hard to top these auspicious wonders. And if you can't top them, stay away from Broadway. What makes you think you can keep eating on a street where the competition is producing "Annie Get Your Gun," "Born Yesterday" and "Brigadoon"?

There it is, Johnny—hurry, hurry, hurry, A nickel's worth of Showmanship on the midway will make you richer than mine pie.

Besides, I'll keep you out in the open air. Lawdy, lawdy, if I were only thirty again!

THESE DAYS

By George E. Sokolsky

The delegates of the World Federation of Trade Unions travelled to Japan as the guests of the American Government, the host being the War Department. General MacArthur had no wish for them to come but he was overruled by Secretary of War Patterson. The delegation consisted of Louis Sallant, General Secretary of the Federation; Ernest Bell, International Secretary of the British Trade Union Congress; Willard Townsend, Executive Board Member of CIO, U.S.A.; Michael Tarazon, Secretary of the Central Council of the Soviet Trade Unions; Patrick Waldberg, Secretary of the Delegation.

Their "Information Bulletin" recounts of a visit to a Korean Textile Mill accompanied by three members of the Board of the All Korean Trade Union Congress—a Left Wing organization. Apparently the management of the textile mill did not regard the delegation as of very much importance. So, "Mr. Sallant expressed his surprise to the director at not having been received as he left his car as it is traditional and customary on all similar missions."

So apparently they got into a fight, that is the Korean Trade Union members and the local people. The management, I quote the W.F.T.U. report, "then informed us that they refused to grant permission to visit the establishment in the company of the people we had chosen." The fight was apparently a bad one—"The members of the delegation were later informed that during the course of the morning the Korean police had arrested many members of the All Korean Congress of Trade Unions who had been distributing the text of the message of welcome in honor of the members of the W.F.T.U. delegation." Then the delegation passed the following resolution:

"1 That all the persons arrested shall be released immediately.

"2 That the delegation be given the opportunity of seeing before the departure at 8:30 this evening the two Korean Trade Unionists who were brutally beaten at the factory.

"3 That a medical report be given to the delegation on the extent of physical damages which these two men have suffered.

"4 That the delegation be given a guarantee that the security and the lives of these men and of the other members of the group who were accompanying us will be safeguarded.

"5 That action be taken against the perpetrators of these brutalities and the manager of the factory.

"6 That the director of the plant, Mr. Lee, and his manager Mr. Kim, who have allowed these incidents to take place and have tacitly approved of them, be discharged from their positions and that they be subjected to the full rigors of the Korean laws which are applicable to such circumstances.

"7 That steps be taken to ensure that the people be guaranteed the right to organize in trade unions of their own choice on the basis of complete democracy without interference."

ference by the state or the police and that this guarantee shall be incorporated in a law.

8 That this committee through its chairman, Mr. Sallant, be advised as to the disposition of this case and that the Korean people be advised of the results."

The probability is that nobody paid much attention to these shaking resolutions. But the point is that it was the War Department of the United States that insisted upon this troublesome delegation going to Japan and Korea where nobody wanted them. It is true that the American delegate, Willard Townsend, is not a Communist and was not in accord with the anti-Americanism of his Communist confederates. Here is a troublesome crowd of Left-Wing unionists who will in the near future, make the headquarters in the United States, at the United Nations building in New York.

The United Nations is a parliament of governments, but by resolution certain private organizations have been accorded special rights particularly the right to maintain headquarters on their premises. The W. F. T. U., the international Left-Wing labor organizations, is one of those. This body will in the future have the advantage of not being addressed. The cover-up is that the A. P. of L. and the International Chamber of Commerce will have offices there, too. But the W. F. T. U. is already acting as though it were an accredited international body. Actually, it is a menace.

Cancer Progress?

The great danger in writing about a new scientific development in its early stages is that one may raise false hopes—and thereby bring scientists into undeserved disrepute. The fact that preliminary experiments do not prove that a cure or a process has been established.

Scientists make no such premature claims. They know that searching tests must be devised, and more of them—and that widespread practical application may uncover flaws.

With this warning, it may be safe to say that there has been a new development in cancer research that looks as if it may be the most important yet made. While it offers no new cure to persons already afflicted, it will—if it lives up to early tests—lead to its discovery while it is still curable.

That is not possible now. Many of the more serious forms of internal cancer cannot in most cases be discovered until it is too late to do anything about them. But now researchers have stumbled upon a simple test which so far seems to reveal the presence of cancer in 39 cases out of 40. An alcohol-ether extract prepared from the urine of persons being examined is injected into laboratory animals, some of whose glands become greatly enlarged if the person has cancer.

If further tests do not invalidate the technique, the results should be revolutionary. Early discovery is the next best thing to cure, as the experience with tuberculosis indicates. Though there is no cure for tuberculosis, that disease has ceased to be the scourge it once was because it can usually be discovered in its early stages.

If cancer, similarly, can be subjected to early treatment by surgery, X-rays or radium therapy—the only methods yet known which are not outright quackery—most of its horrors will disappear.

What with the family planning a picnic the first day of the Fourth of July holiday weekend, a long motor trip the second and going to a baseball game on the third, our neighbor says the Fourth looms like strictly a "cost" weekend.

Fair Federal Taxes

The House Ways and Means Committee has begun hearings on a general tax program which, while it is not likely to reach the House as a definite proposal before next year, should result in removing the injustices which have done so much to curb individual initiative. This plan for a so-called permanent tax structure is entirely separate from the current drive to effect a slight reduction in income taxes.

The present tax structure was created on a so-called-rich policy laid down more than a decade ago. It was begun on a formula of levying income taxes according to ability to pay. This, carried to its present extreme, means the politicians will take all a taxpayer has but no more.

War demands for money were so insistent that Congress had little time to work out a fair tax structure. It retained the New Deal evils and added to them as it dipped into low income groups for money. One year it enacted a tax law which the Treasury's glib experts could not interpret.

Among reforms which now are mandated to liberate the country's production plant from tax brakes is correcting the double taxation of corporation profits, restoring the earned income formula in effect prior to 1942, adjusting taxes to income received in one year for work done through several years, making the splitting of incomes of married couples nationwide, and increasing deductions for net losses.

A fair tax law can be written by any Congress which discards the penalty idea and seeks a way to syphon the money from production at points where it will do the least harm to the country's general prosperity.

Toughness In Order

The "additional report" submitted to the Senate by the joint congressional committee on non-essential federal expenditures should strengthen the determination of economy-minded Congressmen.

As of January 31, according to the report, there were 1,341,663 more persons on the government's payroll than in 1939—despite a net decline of 1,476,437 from June 30, 1945, the wartime peak. Furthermore, the report says that employment in non-war departments and agencies of the government actually increased by 318,167 between June 30, 1945, and January 31 of this year.

Other interesting data included in this study might be cited but this is enough to show that the federal establishment has been expanding, as far as its peacetime components are concerned, during the transition period since the war ended. One reason for this is that certain functions have merely been transferred from war agencies that were supposedly abolished. When the appropriation of one of these set-ups is cut, the bureaucrats in charge spend months in frantic attempts—usually successful—to transfer their personnel to soft berths elsewhere within the government.

In addition to this, it appears that the bureau has been doing what bureaus always do if given the chance. They have been growing. The report is convincing evidence that the President's budget can and should be cut—drastically.

Tax Payers Week

The gentleman who thought up the idea of a "NATIONAL Be Kind to Taxpayers Week" deserves a pat on the back but not for originality. We have already set aside 61 National Weeks for 1947.

Now, for the first time, we are to have a "Be Kind to Taxpayers Week." Frankly we can't think of a more necessary week and we hope it will serve to notify Congress in no uncertain terms that the people of this country are fed up with federal waste and extravagance.

We hope the clamor for reduced federal spending will be sufficient to drown out the walls and moans of the army of federal employees seeking to perpetuate their positions on the federal payroll.

Citizen response to this rather unique call to action will determine whether or not we shall continue wartime spending in 1948.

It may well determine whether or not we shall remain a solvent nation!

IRON AND COPPER PRODUCE HEMOGLOBIN

IN ORDER to function adequately the body requires many minerals such as iodine, magnesium, calcium, phosphorus, and others. Iron and copper are equally important and they are paired because of their interdependence.

We derive our iron chiefly from eggs, molasses, liver and other organs, dried fruits, nuts, and whole grains. When nutrient reaches the stomach, the hydrochloric acid of the gastric juice dissolves the mineral and prepares it for assimilation. Ascorbic acid (vitamin C) and bile are also thought to play a role in iron absorption. A deficiency of any of these substances will interfere with iron metabolism.

At any rate, after passing through the intestinal wall, it is carried via the circulation to the liver and spleen for storage or to the bone marrow, where it will produce hemoglobin. This coloring matter is the pigment in red corpuscles and its duty is to transport oxygen to the tissues.

The system absorbs only as much iron as needed. After its quota is taken, any excess is eliminated via the stools. It is surprising how little is called for when digestion is normal—0.006 grams daily. Estimates reveal that only one part in 25,000 of our entire weight is composed of iron.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Argentina Has Five Year Plan for Military Expansion; Hot Argument Inside State Department Over Selling Arms to Argentina.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON. — The final decision to sell arms to President Peron of Argentina and to oust Peron's enemy, Spruille Braden, as Assistant Secretary of State probably will go down in history as one of the most momentous the United States has made in many years. It was attended by some soul-searching conferences inside the State Department with Braden lined up on one side and various military advisers on the other.

Because the decision was important, it may be well to review some of the backstage arguments put forward by both sides.

Chief point which big, burly Spruille Braden made to Secretary Marshall was that the United States and Argentina enjoyed perfectly normal relations in every possible way except one—namely the United States declined to sell Peron arms. We exchange ambassadors. We buy all the goods Argentina will sell us except fresh meat. And we have unfrozen all Argentine credits in the United States.

However, argued Braden, Argentina is a dictatorship suspected by other Latin American neighbors of having designs on their territory. Therefore, the United States should not increase her power by selling arms.

Others of Marshall's advisers, especially his old friends in the War Department, maintained that if the United States failed to supply an anti-Soviet bloc in the Western Hemisphere it must cooperate with the Argentine Army and Navy.

Braden, in turn, brought out a copy of the Argentine 5-year plan, a highly illuminating document, indicating that President Peron planned to set up a rigorous fascist state right under the nose of the Pan American Union.

Braden also pointed out that Peron had trained for a time under Roberto Farinacci, Secretary General of the Italian Fascist Party, and that two of his chief advisers were Ludwig Freude, a German Nazi, and Heinrich Doerg, former adviser to Hjalmar Schacht.

Peron's 5-year plan, which Braden condensed for General Marshall's study, is a sweeping blueprint to build up Argentina as the most powerful military nation in South America. It calls for stepping up the Argentine birth rate, control of all raw materials in South America, dispersal of Argentine industry as a protection against bombing, intensive experimentation in atomic laboratories, control of the judiciary and other suppressive measures.

Braden also pointed out that the 5-year plan was not merely a document on paper, but actually was being put into effect. Here are some of the 5-year steps Peron already has taken:

1. Control of the judiciary—Four out of five judges on the Argentine Supreme Court already have been impeached. Peron did have even give them a trial. The fifth judge was a Peron stooge. Scores of other lesser judges have been ousted.

2. Control of education—Peron has already fired 700 professors from Argentine universities. He has also placed secondary schools, the hitherto centers of pro-democratic thought, under the control of six especially selected pro-Peron rectors. Finally, he has established his own National Council of Education with authority to run all primary and secondary schools.

3. Control of labor—The Confederation General de Trabajadores, largest labor union in Argentina, has been taken over by Peron. No strike can be called by Peron's opposers. Union men calling a strike are summarily fined, in some cases jailed.

Freedom of Press? —

4. Control of press—While there is official freedom of the press,

Peron exercises powerful indirect control by his supervision of newspaper, his influence over newspaper labor unions, and the practice of levying large fines on hostile newspapers which violate official ordinances.

5. Control of movies and radio—The Argentine Government now owns the two largest radio stations in the country. All other stations are required to submit advance radio scripts on political questions for censorship. Several motion picture houses have been closed for showing pictures disrespectful of the government.

6. Secret police—Peron has established his own secret police, based on the Nazi and Soviet pattern. Several hundred Gestapo agents are on the lookout for anyone hostile to the Peron regime. Result is that some of the top officers of the navy who were too "independent" have been dismissed.

7. Argentine expansion—In addition to increasing the Argentine birth rate, the Peron 5-year plan calls for selective immigration from Europe. Peron has sent two special commissions to Spain and Italy to select "racially pure" immigrants. His goal is to increase Argentina's population from its present 14,000,000 to 100,000,000 in the next 50 years.

These were some of the things Braden put before Marshall and Truman in arguing that the United States could not afford to sell arms to a potentially fascist nation. In the end, he was overruled, chiefly on the ground that the United States could not let Russia and that not even Argentina could be left out of that solidarity.

Note—One factor contributing to the 1st. Then ask yourself which set of minds you'd rather go up against.

Every midway in the world—no exceptions—is ready to be knocked off by a firecracker kid with a little imagination. These tinzel thoroughfares are still getting by on the attractions that raked in the tuppences in Queen Victoria's time.

Except for the parade float jump, Conco is substantially the same as it was in the buttonhole days when Tillyou, Thompson and Dundy were the midway monarchs.

Every other kind of show business has kept an eye on the calendar. The movies have learned how to take and make their heroine bluish in Technicolor. Dancing in the musical theatre has graduated from belly to ballet. The legit has moved up from "Uncle Tom" to "Uncle Vanya."

And don't listen to the gent with the checkered suit and the genuine diamond ring who tells you I don't know what I'm talking about.

Oh, yes I do!

I remember three big midways at three world's fairs—New York, San Francisco, Cleveland. These midways stretched for miles, choke-a-block with peepshows, snake shows, and pickled babies in bottles. These crack-penny attractions tried to buck the Aquacade, a 20th Century show. What happened to them shouldn't happen to a two-headed dog! They drowned in red ink. The modern spectacle sucked up every loose quarter like a vacuum cleaner. Barkers and performers learned a lot about pinocchio those seasons, waiting for the Big Show to break, and pour some people back on the midway.

The next time you're at a carnival, Johnny, take a look at the showman's gallery. You'll see the same state pigeons and pock-marked chickens your grandfather used to bounce 22's off. Take a hinge at the peepshow with the four creaky cuties in harem pants, giving it the indifferent wiggle.

And remember, this is 1947: when half a buck buys a peek at Rita Hayworth and two million dollars' worth of celluloid wonderland. Blow in a quarter throwing baseballs at the stuffed pussycats. And then think of tomorrow's television, in which the Louis will know his opponent right into your lap in the parlor. Then try the various rides. See if the mechanical shake-em-ups do anything but spoil your appetite. It would be worth your while to invent a couple of new rides, Johnny. That's gold in them thar hills!

Where will you get the money to build a new ride, set up a new concession? Where do you think you'd get the money to do a $200,000 musical? From the showman's gallery? From the showman's gallery? From the showman's gallery?

There it is, Johnny—hurry, hurry, hurry. A nicker worth of Showmanship on the midway will make you richer than mince pie.

Besides, I'll keep you out in the open air.

Lawsy, lawsy, if I were only thirty again!

Goss And Smith, Koelker, Murphy On Legion Card

Program At Armory Will Start At 8:15

Matchmaker Robert V. "Sparky" Chisholm last night completed a program of eight bouts for tonight's American Legion amateur boxing show at the state armory when he rematched Pat Murphy and Jake Koelker in one of the three-round scraps.

Koelker, who won the first round, decided to show in the final of the 126-pound open championship in the Legion's tri-state tournament. In two previous engagements, Murphy won the "duke" over Koelker. Murphy represents the Royale A.C. and Koelker is a Diamond A.C. leather pusher. The bout will be the sixth on the card. Murphy's record is 11-6 and Koelker's 8-4.

Title Bout Tops Card

Topping tonight's card will be the open welterweight championship between Randall "Skeets" Starkey (13-2) and Jim Klosterman (8-4). It will be Starkey's third engagement with a Klosterman. The Ridgeley High School lad holds two decisions over Jim's brother, Jackie, but the going should be much tougher against the tall southpaw tonight. Starkey will be gunning for his 11th straight win in a local ring.

Cecil Grimes, one-time Port Hill High School hurler, who saw service with minor league teams in the past two years, celebrated his debut in the Bi-State League yesterday when he pitched the Cumberland Amvets to a 4-3 decision over Young Grove and the Lonaconing Republic Club in a five-inning game at Lonaconing.

A heavy downpour sent the teams to cover in the sixth inning with two Amvets on the bases and one out. "Bee" Scarpelli had singled and Lou Riehl was hit by a pitched ball.

The Amvets-Coney game was the only Bi-State contest staged Sunday.

Rain washed out the four others that were scheduled. Three of the five games billed for Saturday also were postponed on account of rain. Westvaco defeated the Queen City Brewers, 8-4, and Hyndman's Firemen retained their lead of one and one-half games by defeating Mt. Savage, 3-1.

Hyndman and Frostburg were tied at 2-2 when rain halted their game yesterday in the Mountain City. Evans and Henry were the pitchers. Four innings were completed and Barton was leading Westvaco 2-1 when rain halted hostilities. Ross pitched for Barton and Ravenscroft, who started for Westvaco, was relieved in the fourth by Divo.

In the game at Coney, the Amvets scored all their runs in the third inning. "Ike" Cessna was safe on an error by Kolish and went to lefty Lee, playing first base in place of the injured Sammy De Luca, walked. Joe Geatz singled home when Cameron batted. Gerdemann's grounder and Geatz moved to third. Gerdemann stole second and Danny Drew flew to left. Geatz scoring after the catch. Charley Strauss drove home Gerdemann with a time-ly two-bagger for the fourth and final run of the inning.

Lonaconing got one run in the third when Cameron registered on a timely single by Shockey. In the fifth Grove walked, Shockey sacrificed and the Coney twirler scored on Warnick's hit through short.

LANDS BIG ONE. The picture proves it's a 10-9 onel Alex Barclay, of Douglas Avenue, Lonaconing, proudly shows his prize catch—a 23 inch brown trout. He caught the four-pounder on a fly while fishing last Tuesday in the Savage river. He was accompanied by his brother, George. This is reported to be the largest trout taken from the Savage stream. Barclay is one of the better known anglers of this community.

Celanese, Union Settle One Point, Cook Reports

Dispute Continues Over Nine Issues

The Celanese Corporation of America and Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, remained at odds yesterday over nine of the 10 disputed issues as Wesley Cook, assistant rayon director, announced that one of the points had been settled during the 15-hour session that ended early Saturday morning.

In the meantime, however, Edward R. Allen, personnel manager for the company, declared that the company is still adhering to the original offers made to the union and said no meetings are scheduled at the present time.

The next meeting, according to Allen, will not be called until the United States Conciliator, James A. Holden, decides to, and, he added, Holden will not do that until he feels there is sufficient reason to warrant resumption of negotiations.

Holden, according to a hotel clerk, left the city over the weekend but is expected to return this morning.

Cook yesterday afternoon made a full report to the Policy Committee of the union on the status of negotiations.

In his report, released by the TWU, Cook stated that "one of the 10 issues in dispute had been settled in Friday's negotiations. The company agreed to pay double time for all hours worked over 16 in any one day. Both the company and the union agreed that a limitation of 16 hours' work in any one day was a good personnel practice and that the penalty premium of double time for hours in excess of 16 was appropriate."

No Definite Conclusion

"Some progress was made," Cook added, "on the seniority problem involved in clause 8-20 of the seniority provisions. However, no definite conclusion was reached on this knotty problem."

"On the difficult problem raised by the company's demand that the co-operation clause carry definite commitments on the question of increased work-loads, both parties left the conference further apart than during prestrike negotiations. The company proposed the following language:

"Consistent with the principle of a fair day's work for a fair day's pay, the union agrees to co-operate with the employer in achieving a high level of employee performance and efficiency consistent with safety, good health, and sustained effort."

"If, during the term of this agreement, the employer should request changes in the work load, the employer shall notify the union in writing prior to making such changes in work load. The employer and union shall promptly discuss the proposed changes in an effort to reach agreement. Should the parties fail to agree, then said changes shall be given a trial period of one month. If at the end of the trial period there is disagreement regarding the fairness of such work load, this will constitute a grievance to be appealed through the grievance and arbitration procedure."

"In my opinion," Cook said, "if the union were to agree to this proposal as written it would be giving the company a blank check to increase the work load on every job in the plant, no matter how reasonable the increased work load might be. In my 10 years' experience of negotiating contracts within the rayon industry no company has ever demanded such unilateral right to determine work loads. This proposal of the company is all the more surprising in view of our experience during the life of the presently expired agreement. In almost every department the company proposed and received increases in work load when such proposals were backed up with logic and sound facts."

Serious Dispute Remains

"Some progress was made on the question of wage reopening. However, a serious dispute still remains to be settled. The company is unwilling to agree to any method of final determination of disagreement over revision of wages under a wage reopening clause. The union proposed that if direct negotiations failed to reach a mutually satisfactory settlement that the difference be referred to arbitration or that the clause on no lock-outs and no strikes be inoperative as regards a dispute or that either party may cancel the agreement. Company was unwilling to agree to any of the three alternatives and did not offer any counter proposal."

"On the four issues involving seniority, the company, namely, increased vacation pay, pay for holidays on which no work is available; premium pay for work on Saturdays and Sundays; payment for lunch periods taken by steady day shift workers; Cook said, no progress was made. At one time during the negotiation it appeared that a settlement was possible on the matter of pay for holidays not worked. The union offered to limit the liability of the company to those employees for whom they were unable to schedule a compensating day's work in either the week before, the week of, or the week following the holiday."

"The alternative proposal of the union on this issue was to reduce the cost of this demand to a very low figure."

Morgan Appointed To Advisory Board

At a meeting of the Horological Institute of America, Paul K. Morgan, former mayor of Ridgeley, Va., and operator of the Morgan Vocational Training School for war veterans, was appointed a member of the 10-man Advisory Council of the Institute. The meeting was held in the Academy of Science Building in Washington.

The Advisory Council is comprised of top executives of the largest watch manufacturers and operators of watchmaking schools in the country.

Morgan organized his school in February, 1946, and now has 82 students taking course in watch-making and mechanics.

Three of Morgan's students, Howard Burns, this city; Louis House, Mt. Savage, and Charles Aftreman, Elderside, have been notified by the convention that they have passed Junior watchmaking tests.

Lightning Strikes Church; Eleven Persons Injured

None Of Victims Is Hospitalized

Eleven persons escaped serious injury yesterday afternoon when lightning struck the metal roof of the interdenominational church at Mountain View in Hardy County near Purgittsville, W. Va., according to Rev. Lowell Rogers, Burlington, W. Va., the pastor, who was not injured.

The minister's wife suffered body burns and their two sons, Clifford Eldon, 12, and Delmer, 18, suffered minor burns. About 25 persons were in the church at the time.

Rev. Mr. Rogers said that the congregation was gathered for the regular Sunday afternoon union preaching service at 4 p. m. when lightning split a locust tree beside the church, leaped to the roof and traveled down a metal steeple into the interior, splitting nearby benches. The church was not damaged otherwise.

The injured, who were taken to Moorefield for treatment by a physician, were all able to return to their homes. The doctor said all of the victims suffered first and second degree burns and that some suffered third degree burns in small areas of their bodies.

The minister identified the other injured persons as Oscar Cannon, 25, and his wife, Mrs. Louise Cannon, 23, both of Keyser, W. Va.; Mrs. Roy Barb and her daughter, Violet, 15; William See, about 60, and his granddaughter, Betty Wolfe, 6; Jean Shroust, 15, and a Miss Helman, 16.

With the exception of Mr. and Mrs. Cannon and the Rogers family, all reside in the Purgittsville area.

Woman, 67, Hurt; Car Hits Guardrail

A 67-year-old Keyser woman, Mrs. Jessie Picard, was treated in Allegheny Hospital last night for a broken wrist, suffered, she told attaches, when the car in which she was riding struck a guardrail on Route 50 near Capon Bridge, W. Va.

The woman said J. F. Jones, Cumberland, whom she identified as the driver, took her to a physician in Winchester, Va., after the accident happened yesterday morning, and then brought her to Allegheny last night for further treatment.

Mrs. Bessie Kessler, 65, Jennings, was reported resting comfortably in Memorial Hospital, where she was admitted yesterday morning after suffering a fractured left hip in a fall at her home.

A 3-year-old boy, Edward Ray Stanton, son of Edward Stanton, Bittling, was also reported resting comfortably in the same hospital, where he was admitted yesterday afternoon for treatment of face and head injuries suffered when he was kicked by a horse.

Raymond Barton, 23, Cresap, was treated in Allegheny Hospital early yesterday morning for a laceration on the back of the head. Attaches said he was injured on Route 5 but could furnish no further details of the accident.

Suffering a fractured left arm as she was helping to push a car, Mrs. Mary Davis, 67, 213 Arch Street, was treated in Memorial Hospital yesterday morning.

Two Oldtown Road brothers, Eugene Mowry, 21, and Edward Mowry, 22, were treated in Memorial Hospital yesterday morning for minor injuries suffered in an automobile accident at New Baltimore, Pa.

Savage Is Held In Garrett Shooting

Junior Savage, 28, Friendsville, is being held in Garrett County Jail, Oakland, for further questioning in the alleged shooting of his brother, George Savage, 47, also Friendsville, Saturday afternoon at the Accident stockyards after a "family quarrel," according to Sheriff J. S. Teats.

Memorial Hospital attaches said last night George Savage's condition was "good" and he was recovering. He was taken to the hospital shortly after being shot in the arm. Attaches described his injuries as a severe gunshot wound in the upper right arm and loss of blood.

Trooper Milton Hart, who investigated, said the two brothers, along with other members of the family, engaged in a verbal battle to the climaxing gun fire. Another brother, Jack Savage, tried to separate the men, the trooper said.

George allegedly picked up a piece of two by four lumber and chased Junior after the latter had thrown a hatchet, police said. Junior ran inside a barn at the stock yard and obtained a 22 caliber rifle and as George approached within 30 feet he fired, Trooper Hart stated.

Officers found Junior at the Savage home and took him into custody, according to Trooper Hart. Sheriff Teats said no charges have been placed against the men pending further questioning by the prosecuting attorney. He will be questioned today, they added.

Aiding Trooper Hart in the investigation were Trooper Glen D. Polk and Deputy Sheriff Paul Fisher, of Garrett County.

Police Called To School

City Police were called to Johnson Heights School last night on a report that an intruder was observed on the premises, but investigation proved the report false, police said.

REC CLUB RECRUITS

District 3, VFW, Elects Banzhoff New Commander

Favor Vets Hospital Being Opened In Area

(Picture on Page 7)

Members of District No. 3, Maryland Department of Veterans of Foreign Wars, yesterday elected George Banzhoff, Henry Hart Post No. 1411 and Maryland deputy chief of staff, district commander, and went on record as favoring the erection of a veteran's hospital in this area.

For the first time in the history of the organization the membership elected subordinate officers instead of having them appointed by the district commander. He announced that committees will be named within the next two weeks.

Kime Is Elected

Curtis McA. Kime, veteran of World Wars I and II, and a trustee of the local post, was elected senior vice commander while George R. Ridenour, World War I veteran and member of William D. Byron Post, Hagerstown, was elected junior vice commander.

Charles Bulaj, also a trustee of the local post, was elected quartermaster, and Alexander (Pop) Nicol, commander of John R. Fairgrieve Post, Frostburg, was elected district judge advocate.

Wilson Poltz, Queens Point Memorial Post, McCoole, will serve as district surgeon, and Harry Lane, a veteran of World War II, member of Alvin C. Neat Post, Lonaconing, was elected chaplain.

Robert Stager, retiring district commander, opened the election and presided during the meeting until the newly elected officers were installed.

The six delegations which attended the meeting in the local VFW home, went on record as favoring the establishment of a veterans' hospital in this area, and declared it is difficult for veterans of this area to get the attention they need.

Thomas K. Whalley, department inspector and a member of Henry Hart Post, installed the new officers, who spoke briefly after the installation ceremony.

Oakland Charter Lifted

Efforts to reorganize the Oakland post, where the charter was ordered lifted, were discussed and Commander Banzhoff said he will head a committee that will visit Oakland shortly and try to rejuvenate the post.

Plans for the annual encampment at Ocean City were discussed and the seven posts present indicated they will send delegates. The actual count as indicated at the meeting will be:

Henry Hart Post, 128; Hagerstown, 43; Lonaconing, 13; Mt. Savage, 43; McCoole, five, and Friendsville, four. The Oakland post, which makes the eighth member of the district, was not represented.

Commander Banzhoff, with an approving vote of the district, indicated that district meetings will be held every three months at the district commander's call.

Refreshments were served by Vernon Crabbe and Robert Parks, members of Henry Hart Post Drum and Bugle Corps.

Father Lewis To Be Ordained Thursday

Auxiliary Bishop John B. McNamara will ordain Bernard Edward Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard E. Lewis, 842 Gephart Drive, into the Catholic priesthood Thursday in ceremonies in the Basilica of the Assumption (the Cathedral) in Baltimore.

The young priest will celebrate his first mass at St. Patrick's Church next Sunday at 8:30 a. m. Very Rev. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor, will be arch priest. Rev. Edward J. Hogan, SS, professor of dogmatic theology, St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, deacon, Rev. John P. Mattingly, a student at Theological College, Catholic University, sub-deacon, Rev. Ernest J. Bennett, Grand Rapids, Mich., master of ceremonies, and Ross La. Forie and Robert Passarelli, Frostburg, students at St. Mary's Seminary, acolytes.

The new priest is a native of New York City, and was educated at St. Patrick's parochial school and La. Salle High School after the family moved here in 1927. He attended Potomac State School, St. Charles College, and St. Mary's Seminary where he received bachelor of sacred theology in 1945 and licentiate of sacred theology this year.

Steyer Man Held In Oakland Jail

Cleveland Arbagast, 30, a resident of Steyer, Garrett County, about 20 miles south of Oakland, is being held in the county jail in Oakland on charges of breaking and entering, county and state authorities said last night.

Arbagast was arrested Saturday at his home after he allegedly forced the lock on the front door of the general store and postoffice operated by Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Steyer, authorities said. He is being held for action of the grand jury in default of bond.

Local postal officials said federal authorities are investigating to determine whether or not the post-office was also entered.

Mr. and Mrs. Steyer reported that nothing was taken from the store. Authorities said Arbagast admitted entering the store. They said he told them he had broken into the place on several previous occasions.

Large Audiences Hear Sermons At City High Schools

Nearly 2,000 Attend Three Programs

Nearly 2,000 persons braved intermittent showers yesterday afternoon to attend commencement sermons at Port Hill, Allegheny and Carver High Schools, including the approximately 400 seniors of the three schools.

Rev. C. N. Hutchinson, pastor of First Church of the Nazarene, addressed an audience of over 900 persons at Port Hill on the theme, "Making the Right Choice." The speaker explained that the right choice is Christ, the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, referring to the eight beatitudes in the Sermon on the Mount as the principles of righteousness.

By following the ideal of Christ's teaching, he said, a successful, fruitful and happy life may be achieved. Referring to Christ as the "ideal of all ideals" and the "teacher of all teachers," Rev. Mr. Hutchinson concluded his sermon by reciting that Apostle Paul said "Christ is all and in all."

Rev. Carl H. Clapp, pastor of St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church, gave the invocation and benediction, and Scriptural reading was led by Rev. Arthur Scrogum, pastor of Living Stone Church of the Brethren.

Dr. Powers Gives Talk

Musical selections included "Sun of My Soul," "Beautiful Savior" and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You," sung by the cappella choir. Jimmie Hager, a junior, sang a solo, "I Walked Today where Jesus Walked." The school orchestra played processional and recessional marches.

At the Allegheny the sermon was delivered by Dr. Edgar Cordell Powers, Baltimore, secretary of the Maryland Bible Society, before an audience of over 800 persons.

Speaking on the theme, "The Day of Little Things," Dr. Powers said that seemingly unimportant happenings may prove to be the turning point in a person's life, and urged the graduating students to weigh carefully words of advice or happenings which seem trivial at the moment but which may have an important bearing on their future lives. He cited several examples from his own boyhood to illustrate the point.

Rev. James A. Richards, pastor of First Methodist Church, gave the invocation and benediction, and the choir sang "Beautiful Savior," with a soprano solo by Doris Davis: "List the Cherub Host," with solos by Gene Shaw, baritone, Frances Allen and Margaret Russell; and "Praise Ye Father." Robert Smith, baritone, followed the school tradition at commencement sermon events by singing "The Lord's Prayer" after the invocation. Jean Marquis and Miss Davis were organists.

Carver Program Listed

Rev. William A. Eisenberger, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, delivered the commencement sermon at Carver on the topic "As One Thinketh." Approximately 100 persons were present.

Stating that a person can achieve whatever he aspires to if he can think, Rev. Mr. Eisenberger developed the theme that there are opportunities for all mankind, and that God is no respecter of persons, regardless of their race, creed or color.

Rev. W. A. Stewart, pastor of Metropolitan A.M.E. Church, gave the invocation; Earle L. Bracey, principal, led Scriptural reading; and Rev. Julius Williams, pastor of McKendree M. E. Church, gave the benediction.

The school's mixed chorus sang "Goin' Home," "Onward, Christian Soldiers" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Sarah Louise Jones, one of the 17 members of the graduating class, sang a soprano solo, "Now the Day Is Over." Aden Lewis, county music director, directed the singing, with accompaniments by Mrs. Bracey.

The Carver and Port Hill commencements will be held next Thursday, and the Allegheny graduation will be held Friday.

Electrical, Wind Storms Hit Area; Damage Reported

Houses In Piedmont Section Lose Roofs

A severe electrical storm that struck the tri-state area yesterday morning about 2:15 o'clock and was followed later in the afternoon by heavy rains and in some sections near tornado winds, left considerable property and agriculture damage in its wake, but no casualties were reported.

Electrical and telephone lines were put out of order in many sections, but the intensity of the late afternoon wind storm seemed to concentrate in the Westport-Piedmont-Burlington area where roofs were torn from houses, windows broken and communication disrupted.

Residents in both Piedmont and Westport reported that sections of house roofs had been blown away and authorities said a tree 15 inches in diameter was blown across the Westport-McCoole road one mile east of Westport.

In the Romney section, West Virginia State Police said telephone and radio communications were out of order as a result of the strong winds that struck the area yesterday afternoon.

In Cumberland the early morning lightning struck the home of Stanley Ruby, Valley Road, and damaged an electric stove, besides disrupting the lighting system. Mrs. Ruby said the lightning struck 2:30 a. m. and when she came down stairs into the kitchen the room was filled with smoke. No other damage was caused, however, she declared.

A large canvas tent, 60x90 feet, on South Centre Street was lifted from the ground and torn completely across, according to Rev. C. N. Hutchinson, pastor of First Church of the Nazarene.

Rev. Mr. Hutchinson explained that the tent was erected as a place in which to hold evangelistic services, scheduled to start last night. He said that the evangelist, Rev. James P. Trueblood, Hartford, N. C., preached at the church at yesterday's evening service, and that it is expected repairs to the tent will be completed in time to have the first evangelistic service there on Wednesday. Services will be held each evening at 7:45 through June 22.

In other sections of the city, residents reported light trees being split and broken and considerable damage to the roof of the home of O. D. Collett, 65 West Hampshire Street, Piedmont, awnings were blown off the house and porch furniture was smashed by the high wind.

Local residents yesterday termed the early morning storm one of the worst in recent years and one man said it is the worst electrical storm that he can recall in the past 30 years.

Graduates Can Work For Peace, Speaker States

Awards Announced At LaSalle Event

Graduating classes provide optimistic hope for ultimate peace and order in the world because they have been taught moral, ethical and scientific truths, Rev. Brother Dominus Vincent, F.S.C., professor of psychology and philosophy at LaSalle College, Philadelphia, Pa., told a class of 50 graduating students at the 38th annual commencement exercises of LaSalle High School in Carroll Hall last night.

In recent years, Brother Vincent said, a struggle for world control has been developing among three forces—a kind of secularism which is an organized way of life without God; totalitarianism, and Christianity. It is up to the graduates, he asserted, to support the Christian way of living.

"This can be done by leading good lives as citizens and by living as 'intelligent creatures,' which involves learning to live, learning to love, learning to laugh, the speaker said.

Urges Moral Living

Lack of world peace, and general world chaos are due to chaos and confusion in everyday living, Brother Vincent said. These conditions can be changed by living according to moral law and the rule of reason, he declared.

There is no need for the graduates to be afraid of going out into the world, because they have been taught Christian principles of living and because they have the support and backing of their parents, teachers and clergy, he concluded.

Very Rev. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, presided. Brother Vincent was introduced by Brother E. Clement, F.S.C., principal, who awarded diplomas and conferred special awards and honors.

John J. Mathias, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Mathias, 38 Frost Avenue, Frostburg, gave the valedictory address. Mathias, winner of the general excellence medal and scholastic leader of his class, expressed appreciation to parents, faculty and members of various organizations who contributed to the success of the class. He urged his fellow graduates to hold fast to the ideals inculcated at LaSalle, especially those regarding character and conduct. "Let us not separate in spirit," he said.

Award Winners Listed

Winners of 20 senior awards, as announced by Brother Clement at the exercises, are as follows:

1. Gold medal for excellence in graduating class, donated by the McMullen Brothers in memory of Hugh McMullen, a cash prize of $10 donated by Tonkaway Trust No. 120, Improved Order of Red Men—John J. Mathias.

2. Gold medal for religion in graduating class, donated by Mrs. Michael P. Prendergast in memory of her brother, Richard McMullen—James L. Hughes.

Celanese, Union Settle One Point, Cook Reports

Dispute Continues Over Nine Issues

The Celanese Corporation of America and Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, remained at odds yesterday over nine of the 10 disputed issues as Wesley Cook, assistant rayon director, announced that one of the points had been settled during the 15-hour session that ended early Saturday morning.

In the meantime, however, Edward R. Allen, personnel manager for the company, declared that the company is still adhering to the original offer made to the union and said no meetings are scheduled at the present time.

The next meeting, according to Allen, will not be called until the United States Conciliator, James A. Holden, decides to, and, he added, Holden will not do that until he feels there is sufficient reason to warrant resumption of negotiations.

Holden, according to a hotel clerk, left the city over the weekend but is expected to return this morning.

Cook yesterday afternoon made a full report to the Policy Committee of the union on the status of negotiations.

In his report, released by the TWUA, Cook stated that "one of the 10 issues in dispute had been settled in Friday's negotiations. The company agreed to pay double time for all hours worked over 16 in any one day. Both the company and the union agreed that a limitation of 16 hours' work in any one day was a good personnel practice and that the penalty premium of double time for hours in excess of 16 was appropriate."

No Definite Conclusion
"Some progress was made," Cook added, "on the seniority problem involved in clause 8-20 of the seniority provisions. However, no definite conclusion was reached on this knotty problem."

"On the difficult problem raised by the company's demand that the co-operation clause be deleted from the contract, both parties left the conference further apart than during prestrike negotiations. The company proposed the following language:

"Consistent with the principle of a fair day's work for a fair day's pay, the union agrees to co-operate with the employer in achieving a high level of employee performance and efficiency consistent with safety, good health, and sustained effort."

"If, during the term of this agreement, the employer should request changes in the work load, the employer shall notify the union in writing prior to making such changes in work load. The employer and union shall promptly discuss the proposed changes in an effort to reach agreement. Should the parties fail to agree, then said changes shall be given a trial period of one month. If, at the end of the trial period there is disagreement regarding the fairness of such work load, this will constitute a grievance to be appealed through the grievance and arbitration procedure."

"In my opinion," Cook said, "if the union were to agree to this proposal as written it would be giving the company a blank check to increase the work load on every job in the plant, no matter how unreasonable the increased work load might be. In my 10 years' experience of negotiating contracts within the rayon industry no company has ever demanded such unilateral right to determine work loads. This proposal of the company is all the more surprising in view of our experience during the life of the recently expired agreement. In almost every department the company had proposed and received increases in work load when such proposals were backed up with logic and sound facts."

Serious Dispute Remains
"Some progress was made on the question of wage reopening. However, a serious dispute still remains to be settled. The company is unwilling to agree to any method of final determination of disagreement over revision of wages under a wage reopening clause. The union proposed that if direct negotiations failed to reach a mutually satisfactory settlement that the dispute be referred to arbitration or that the clause on no lock-outs and no strikes be inoperative as regards a dispute or that either party may cancel the agreement. Company was unwilling to agree to any of the three alternatives and did not offer any counter proposal."

"On the four issues involving money costs to the company, namely, increased vacation pay; pay for holidays on which no work is available; premium pay for work on Saturdays and Sundays; and premium pay for lunch periods taken by steady shift workers, Cook said, no progress was made. At one time during the negotiation it appeared that a settlement was possible in the matter of pay for holidays not worked. The union offered to limit the liability of the company to the employees for whom they were unable to schedule a compensating day's work in either the week before, the week of, or the week following the holiday."

Lightning Strikes Church; Eleven Persons Injured

None Of Victims Is Hospitalized

Eleven persons escaped serious injury yesterday afternoon when lightning struck the metal roof of the interdenominational church at Mountain View in Hardy County near Purgittsville, W. Va., according to Rev. Lowell Rogers, Burlington, W. Va., the pastor, who was not injured.

The minister's wife suffered body burns and their two sons, Clifton Eldon, 12, and Delmer, 18, suffered minor burns. About 25 persons were in the church at the time.

Rev. Mr. Rogers said that the congregation was gathered for the regular Sunday afternoon union preaching service at about 4 p. m. when lightning split a locust tree beside the church, leaped to the roof and traveled down a metal steeple into the interior, splitting nearby benches. The church was not damaged otherwise.

The injured, who were taken to Moorefield for treatment by a physician, were all able to return to their homes. The doctor said all of the victims suffered first and second degree burns and that some suffered third degree burns in small areas of their bodies.

The minister identified the other injured persons as Oscar Cannon, 25, and his wife, Mrs. Louise Cannon, 23, both of Keyser, W. Va.; Mrs. Roy Beale and her daughter, Violet, 15, William Beale, about 60, and his granddaughter, Betty Wolfe, 6; Jean Shroat, 15, and a Miss Helman, 18.

Savage Is Held In Garrett Shooting

Junior Savage, 26, Friendsville, is being held in Garrett County Jail, Oakland, for further questioning in the alleged shooting of his brother, George Savage, near the Friendsville, Saturday afternoon at the Accident stockyards after a "family quarrel," according to Sheriff J. S. Teats.

Memorial Hospital attaches said last night George Savage's condition was "good" and he was recovering. He was taken to the hospital shortly after being shot in the arm. Attaches described his injuries as a severe gunshot wound in the upper right arm and loss of blood.

Trooper Milton Hart, who investigated, said the two brothers, along with other members of the family, engaged in a quarrel which progressed from a verbal battle to the climaxing gun fire. Another brother, Jack Savage, tried to separate the men, the trooper said.

George allegedly picked up a piece of iron from a lumber pile and chased Junior after the latter had thrown a hatchet, police said. Junior ran inside a barn at the stock yard and obtained a .22 caliber rifle and as George approached within 30 feet he fired, Trooper Hart stated.

Officers found Junior at the Savage home and took him into custody, according to Trooper Hart. Sheriff Teats said no charges have been placed against the men pending further questioning by the prosecuting attorney. He will be questioned today, they learned.

Members of District No. 3, Maryland Department of Veterans of Foreign Wars, yesterday elected George Banzhoff, Henry Hart Post No. 1411 and Maryland deputy chief of staff, district commander, and went on record as favoring the erection of a veteran's hospital in this area.

For the first time in the history of the organization the membership elected subordinate officers instead of having them appointed by the district commander. He announced that committees will be named within the next two weeks.

Thomas K. Whalley, department inspector and a member of Henry Hart Post, installed the new officers, who spoke briefly after the installation ceremony.

Large Audiences Hear Sermons At City High Schools

Nearly 2,000 persons braved intermittent showers yesterday afternoon to attend commencement sermons at Fort Hill, Allegheny and Carver High Schools, including the approximately 400 seniors of the three schools.

Rev. C. N. Hutchinson, pastor of First Church of the Nazarene, addressed an audience of over 900 persons at Fort Hill on the theme, "Making the Right Choice." The speaker explained that the right choice is Christ, the kingdom of God and His righteousness, referring to the eight beatitudes in the Sermon on the Mount as the principles of righteousness.

By following the ideal of Christ's teaching, he said, a successful, fruitful and happy life may be achieved. Referring to Christ as the "ideal of all ideals" and the "teacher of all teachers," Rev. Mr. Hutchinson concluded his sermon by recalling that Apostle Paul said "Christ is all in all."

Rev. Carl H. Clapp, pastor of St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church, gave the invocation and benediction, and Scriptural reading was led by Rev. Arthur Scroggins, pastor of Living Stone Church of the Brethren.

Dr. Powers Gives Talk
Musical selections included "Sun of My Soul," "Beautiful Savior" and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You," sung by the cappella choir. Jimmie Hager, a junior, sang a solo, "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked." The school orchestra played processional and recessional marches.

At the Allegheny the sermon was delivered by Dr. Edgar Cordell Powers, Baltimore, secretary of the Maryland Bible Society, before an audience of over 800 persons.

Speaking on the theme, "The Day of Little Bless You and Keep You," Dr. Powers said that seemingly unimportant happenings may prove to be the turning point in a person's life, and urged the graduating students to weigh carefully words of advice or happenings which seem trivial at the moment but which may have an important bearing on their future lives. He cited several examples from his own boyhood to illustrate the point.

Rev. James A. Richards, pastor of First Methodist Church, gave the invocation and benediction, and the choir sang "Beautiful Savior," with a soprano solo by Doris Davis; "Let the Cherub Host," with solo by Gene Shaw, baritone; Frances Allen and Margaret Russell; and "Praise Ye Father." Robert Smith, baritone, followed the school tradition at commencement sermon events by singing "The Lord's Prayer" after the invocation. Jean Marquis and Miss Davis were organists.

Carver Program Listed
Rev. William A. Eisenberger, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, delivered the commencement sermon at Carver on the topic "One Thinker's View." Approximately 100 persons were present.

Stating that a person can achieve whatever he aspires to if he can think, Rev. Mr. Eisenberger developed the theme that there are opportunities for all mankind, and that God is no respecter of persons, regardless of their race, creed or color.

The school's mixed chorus sang "Goin' Home," "Onward, Christian Soldiers" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Sarah Louise Jones, one of the 17 members of the graduating class, sang a soprano solo, "Now the Day is Over."

Lowell county music director, directed the singing, with accompaniment by Mrs. Bracey.

The Carver and Fort Hill commencements will be held next Thursday, and the Allegheny graduation will be held Friday.

Francis K. Pinn, Detachment of the Marine Corps League, 120 South Mechanic Street, will hold a special meeting at 8 o'clock to-night. A financial report and house committee report will be given.

Elma Evans, 6-year-old daughter of Elmo Evans, 14 West First Street, was treated in Memorial Hospital last night for injuries suffered when she ran against the side of a car on Springdale Street, attaches said. She suffered abrasions of both legs.

Charles identified the driver of the car as Donald Merritt, 45 Boone Street. Officer Carl Stauffer investigated.

Electrical, Wind Storms Hit Area; Damage Reported

A severe electrical storm that struck the tri-state area yesterday morning about 2:15 o'clock and was followed later in the afternoon by heavy rains and in some sections near tornado winds, left considerable property and agriculture damage in its wake, but no casualties were reported.

Electrical and telephone lines were put out of order in many sections, but the intensity of the late afternoon wind and storm seemed to concentrate in the Westernport-Piedmont-Burlington area, where roofs were torn from houses, windows broken and communication disrupted.

Residents in both Piedmont and Westernport reported that sections of house roofs had been blown away and authorities said a tree 15 inches in diameter was blown across the Westernport-McCoole road one mile east of Westernport.

In the Romney section, West Virginia State Police said telephone and radio communications were out of order as a result of the strong winds that struck the area yesterday afternoon.

In Cumberland the early morning lightning struck the home of Stanley Ruby, Valley Road, and damaged an electric stove besides disrupting the lighting system. Mrs. Ruby said the lightning struck 2:30 a. m. and when she came down stairs into the kitchen the room was filled with smoke. No other damage was caused, however, she declared.

A large canvas tent, 60x90 feet, on South Centre Street was lifted from the ground and torn completely across, according to Rev. C. N. Hutchinson, pastor of First Church of the Nazarene.

Rev. Mr. Hutchinson explained that the tent was erected as a place in which to hold evangelistic services, scheduled to start last night. He said that the evangelist, Rev. James P. Trueblood, Hartford, N. C., preached at the church yesterday evening service, and that it is expected repairs to the tent will be completed in time to have the first evangelistic service there on Wednesday. Services will be held each evening at 7:45 through June 22.

In other sections of the city, residents reported light trees being split and broken and considerable damage being done to gardens. At the home of O. D. Collett, 65 West Hampshire Street, Piedmont, awnings were blown off the house and porch furniture was smashed by the high winds.

Local residents yesterday termed the early morning storm one of the worst in recent years and one man said it is the worst electrical storm that he can recall in the past 30 years.
